WOODED AREA — Mr. and Mrs. Michael Inskeep 309 N. North St., now have the nature-lover's dream home. It has a view of lush trees from every room on the front side of the house. However, they are less than ecstatic about it. The view was provided Friday evening when a huge limb from a tree near the curb crashed across their front lawn and rested some of its branches on their roof during a storm. The extent of the damage is not yet known.

Trees downed, woman injured

Heavy storm sweeps county

A boisterous thunderstorm lashed the Fayette County area Friday night dumping an inch and a half of rain on Washington C.H. and creating problems for utility companies.

The noisy storm, which began shortly after 6:30 p.m. injured one person, downed at least four trees in Washington C.H., while limbs were felled throughout the city.

Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C.H. weather observer, measured a total 1.45 inches of precipitation in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Saturday.

The Fayette County area received some advanced warning of the lightning-laced storm. The National Weather Service in Columbus listed Fayette County under a severe thunderstorm warning until 7 p.m. Friday. Shortly after the warning that Fayette County was included in the storm path, a number of other neighboring counties were added to the list.

Actually, the Washington C.H. area experienced the brunt of the thunderstorm in less than an hour as it was relatively calm with only rain showers after 7:30 p.m.

GEORGE WINKLE, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co.'s Washington C.H. district, said damage was primarily centered in Washington C.H. and north of the city in the Jeffersonville and South Solon areas. Winkle said damage was light in the Greenfield area although some troubles were reported in Good Hope.

Power outages in Washington C.H. were reported as scattered and only in individual cases as service wires were downed, according to Winkle.

Wind and lightning damage, plus downed trees and three limbs caused the majority of the headaches for Dayton Power and Light Co. work crews. The crews were replacing downed lines and transformers today.

Winkle was unable to estimate the number of Dayton Power and Light Co. customers affected by power outages.

Miss Norita Craycraft, plant manager for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., in Washington C.H., said damage as far as the phone company was concerned was concentrated in a few areas. She said wet cable was the primary problem, although the company expects to receive more reports of damage later today.

AT LEAST four large trees were downed in Washington C.H., blocking traffic lanes.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said trees were felled at the intersection of Temple and Wilson streets, on N. North Street across from the Washington Junior High School building and on Millikan Avenue. A tree was also down behind Cherry Street and blocked an alley, after hitting a garage and knocking down some wires.

Duncan said city street crews has cut all the downed trees into small pieces and all had been removed from traffic lanes. He also said limbs had been downed throughout the city.

Lightning struck and almost demolished a steeple on a county church located on U.S. 35-W, during last night's storm.

A trustee of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church, Gene Donohoe, Rt. 4, reported the steeple split in two by the lightning and debris all over the ground. He added that electricity had been knocked out, but that there was no fire.

A COVINGTON, KY. woman was injured at the Fayette County Fairground when she and her husband attempted to close up their camper, brought here for the collector show, in the storm.

Reva Ann Gatley, 47, suffered a scalp laceration requiring six stitches when she was struck on the head by a corner of the camper canopy.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported the incident at 6:50 p.m. and said the victim had been taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Washington C.H. firemen were summoned to a fire at 319 Delaware Street at 6:43 p.m.

Wind stress on electric lines caused the wires to burn through, but there was no fire upon arrival of firemen. Dayton Power and Light Co. crews were alerted.

Ziegler blasts impeachment leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaks of secret House Judiciary Committee evidence violate "the most basic sense of fairness and justice," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler says.

"Certain members of the committee and staff have practiced neither order, nor discipline, nor due process, and the result is that the country is being seriously — and in a calculated way — misled about the facts," Ziegler said Friday in a telephone interview from Key Biscayne, Fla.

Ziegler joined White House lawyer James D. St. Clair in suggesting the committee open its hearings "so that this calculated and piecemeal parceling out of information can be assessed by the country."

After four days of hearings, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., seems determined to keep them closed, at least through next week. The committee has scheduled its next closed meeting for Tuesday.

Ziegler said the leaks "will certainly have a bearing on further decisions about making information available to the committee."

The Judiciary Committee has been told by White House lawyers that it will get a response by Monday to its request for evidence relating to the ITT antitrust settlement and political contributions from the dairy industry.

The committee also has subpoenaed 11 additional Watergate tapes for delivery by Wednesday. The White House has said it would not deliver any more Watergate tapes.

Ziegler said Nixon talked Friday at Key Biscayne with key staff aides about committee proceedings but would give no details.

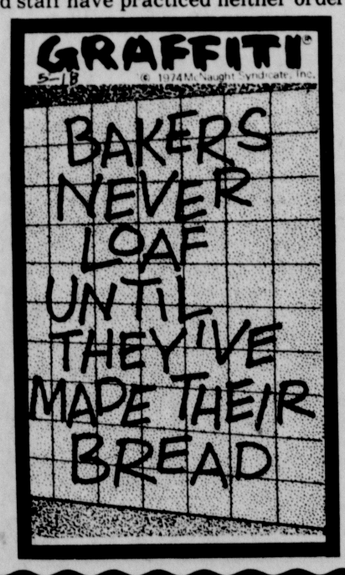

In other Watergate-related developments:

—C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo has a letter from former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans acknowledging receipt of a secret contribution given to Rebozo by the head of the Winn-Dixie food chain, a source said.

The Senate Watergate committee has been investigating $50,000 given to Rebozo in 1972 by A.D. Davis, vice chairman of Winn-Dixie Corp. The Washington Post has reported that the committee had been told the money never reached Nixon's campaign organization.

—The Senate Judiciary Committee postponed hearings on Nixon's nomination of Earl J. Silbert, the original Watergate prosecutor, to be U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia. No explanation was provided for the postponement of the hearings, which had been scheduled to start on Tuesday.

—The former president of a Pennsylvania dairy cooperative, Richard L. Allison, pleaded guilty to consenting to an illegal $50,000 corporate contribution to Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Jumping frog jubilee slated in Calaveras County, Calif.

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — It all started back in California's Gold Rush days, when some miners began betting on whose frog could jump the farthest. Now it's become a sort of froggy olympics.

Organizers say they expect 50,000 people and 3,000 frogs to attend this weekend's Jumping Frog Jubilee, held annually in this hamlet in the Sierra foothills about 100 miles east of San Francisco.

Politicians, particularly in an election year like this one, are always likely to show up.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who keeps glass jars of jellybeans in his executive suite, has entered a frog called Jellybean VIII.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination despite an indictment for perjury by the Watergate grand jury, has entered a frog named Jaworski, named after special Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

And California Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., running for the Democratic nomination for governor, has entered a frog named Expletive Deleted.

For the frogs, unmoved by political considerations, the idea is to cover as much distance as possible in three leaps. Toads are banned.

Trainers can't touch their entrants, but they can shout, pray and jump up and down.

There is a world record. It was set in 1966 when a frog named Ripple hopped 19 feet, three and one-eighth inches. A frog beating Ripple's record will earn $1,200 for his owner-trainer. First place money is $300 to the owner of the winner of Sunday's jump-off.

Mark Twain immortalized frog jumping with his 1865 short story about a fearsome leaper of Gold Rush days named Dan'l Webster. Dan'l beat all his competition in Calaveras County until some unscrupulous gamblers fed him a bellyful of buckshot before a big contest.

Was Patty among them?

Five gunned down in SLA shootout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police are trying to identify the charred bodies of five persons removed from a suspected Symbionese Liberation Army hideout following a blazing hour-long gun battle between officers and its occupants.

A spokesman for newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the FBI told Hearst one of the dead was SLA leader Donald D. DeFreeze. But the FBI in both Los Angeles and San Francisco denied that agents had identified DeFreeze — alias SLA General Field Marshal Cinque. It also denied telling Hearst any such thing.

The SLA claims it kidnaped Hearst's daughter, Patricia, in Berkeley last Feb. 4. She since has renounced her family and said she had joined the terrorist organization, atlthough authorities say her statements may have been coerced.

John Lester, the Hearst spokesman, told reporters of DeFreeze's reported death late Friday outside the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough, south of San Francisco. But he walked away without a word when reporters shouted, "What about Patty? What about Patty?"

Earlier Lester had said, "We just hope to God that Patty is somewhere else."

It had been feared that Miss Hearst may have been one of three white women seen by a neighbor before the shootout. The frame house burned to the ground after catching fire in the gun battle.

Police said they saw two women's bodies — one white and one black — lying in a hallway as the house burned. Ammunition belts on their bodies exploded in the fire's heat.

Three other bodies were found underneath the house near air vents to the outside.

Authorities said they were unable to positively identify any of the bodies because they were so badly disfigured. "It was a war, no other way to describe it," said police commander Peter Hagen after officers attacked the house, firing volley after volley of tear gas, shotgun and M16 rifle rounds.

They were met with heavy return fire some of it thought to be from .50-caliber machine guns. Tear gas grenades apparently sparked the fire that burned the house.

A flak-jacketed officer with a gas mask said, "It was just like Vietnam."

The battle, which was televised live on Los Angeles stations, followed a raid earlier in the day at another suspected SLA hideout. But the house was found to be empty.

A woman who emerged from the house after it caught fire said there were five other persons inside — a black man, a black woman and three white women.

"They held me, they held me," the woman was heard to say as she was taken away to an ambulance. She was not identified and appeared to have suffered gunshot wounds.

Mary Carr, 52, told police her daughter lived in the house and allowed five persons who arrived at 2 a.m. Friday to spend the night after they offered to pay $100.

Mrs. Carr said she went to the house Friday.

"A white lady had a belt on with a pistol...she slapped at the pistol and smiled up at me," Mrs. Carr said.

Mrs Carr said she left and notified police. Police reported later two vans that may have have been used by the SLA members were discovered parked nearby.

It was not known if Mrs. Carr's daughter, Minnie Lewis, 33, was the woman who ran from the house.

Officers with lights poked through the debris through the night, finding a few handguns, a shotgun and small pipebombs.

Shooting from inside the house continued even as it was engulfed in flames. The firing ceased after the walls collapsed.

One policeman was at first reported to have a leg wound, but officers later said he apparently fell off a roof.

Before the raid, the FBI alerted police agencies in Washington state to be on the lookout for a car possibly carrying Miss Hearst and SLA members. Early today the alert still stood.

The raid followed a hunt for three suspected SLA members who fled after a shootout at a sporting goods store in nearby Inglewood Thursday night.

The two white women and a white man identified themselves as SLA members as they commandeered vehicles to make their escape.

A clerk at the store later identified the man from pictures as William Taylor Harris, 29, and police said one of the women was probably his wife, Emily, 27. Both are said by authorities to be founding members of the SLA, which has been described as a heavily armed, multiracial group of about 25 persons.

A woman in a van fired 27 carbine shots at the store front, and a clerk fired three shots as the trio fled in the van, police said. No one was hit.

The trio later abandoned the van and stole three vehicles. They told one of the drivers, "We're from the SLA. We need your car," authorities said.

The trio kidnaped one of the drivers, Thomas D. Matthews, 18, and drove him in his van to a drive-in theatre. Matthews said they apparently planned to meet someone there.

Matthews said he was treated cordially and given food and drink. Later he identified Mrs. Harris as one of his abductors, police said.

He said the trio drove about 15 miles, then left him in the van under a blanket after they apparently commandeered a car.

India joins atomic club

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test, the Indian Atomic Energy Commission announced today. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the world "nuclear club" heretofore reserved to the major military powers.

The announcement, which did not specify when the explosion occurred, said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving. It said India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons.

But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

The only nations that now are known to have nuclear weapons are the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The Indian announcement said the test blast was conducted at a depth of 100 meters — about 328 feet. It did not say where the test took place or give the size of the bomb.

Experts had long suspected that India was on the verge of a nuclear bomb capacity. The consultative committee of the Indian Parliament charged with atomic energy matters was advised last year that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government was conducting experiments in the field.

But today's announcement was the first public indication that India had the ability to build and explode a bomb.

Mrs. Ghandi's government has strongly criticized atmospheric nuclear tests, particularly those conducted by China since it joined the nuclear powers in 1964. But India, like France, has refused to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty of July 1, 1968.

Trucker vote set Sunday on shutdown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Independent truckers across the nation are watching Ohio closely for the outcome of a vote scheduled Sunday on whether owner-operators in the state will join the shutdown.

One woman representing Cincinnati-area truckers told driver representatives Friday, "If you're all waiting for them to go, I think you're going to be very happy."

Independent trucker representatives from 15 states were urged to continue their shutdown at least through the weekend, during a conference call arranged by Overdrive Magazine of Los Angeles.

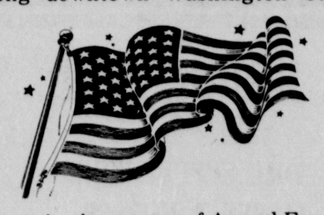

Overdrive and its Editor, Mike Parkhurst, are leading the way in the latest independent trucker shutdown effort. Drivers complain that rising fuel costs are forcing them out of business.

Parkhurst spoke to 250 independent truckers at a Franklin, Ohio rally Thursday. Drivers voted to join the protest, but decided to try for a stronger mandate Sunday before taking action.

About 1,000 drivers are expected to attend the gathering in Middletown.

Alliance fire loss heavy

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Alliance Fire Chief Carl Held says damage could run as high as $2 million from a fire that swept through the Morgan Engineering Co. plant here early today.

Five men inside the plant when the fire broke out escaped uninjured, but one fireman was hospitalized for observation with minor injuries.

Death toll hits 23 in Irish blasts

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — "There were limbs, pieces of clothing and bodies everywhere," sobbed an eyewitness after three powerful car bombs ripped through the heart of Dublin.

According to the latest police count, 23 men, women and children were killed and 150 wounded in the rush hour bombings Friday night, the worst bombing incident in almost five years of the sectarian war that has hit the Irish Republic as well as Northern Ireland.

Five more persons died in a bomb blast in the border town of Monaghan and at least 20 were injured.

"There were bodies and blood everywhere," said American attorney Francis P. McQuade of Maplewood, N.J., who arrived in Dublin only half an hour before the blasts. "A little girl who had been looking in a store window when the bomb went off was blown right through it."

Police warned that more bombs may be on the way.

Police sources suspected the bombers were Protestant fanatics from the north. The bombs were planted in cars hijacked earlier in the day from a Protestant stronghold in Belfast, the Northern Ireland capital.

The Ulster Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, and the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army denied any involvement with the bombings.

A man, calling himself "Capt. Craig of the Red Hand Brigade," telephoned a Dublin newspaper late Friday to warn that more bombs will be planted in the city in the next few days.

The "Red Hand of Ulster" is a traditional Protestant symbol.

The caller said the bombings will continue "until something is done about Sunningdale" — the pact signed last December by Britain, the Irish Republic and Northern Ireland.

The agreement, providing for a Council of Ireland with representatives from the north and south, is viewed by many northern Protestants as a sellout that will end in a unification of Ulster with the Catholic republic.

Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave, his voice shaking with emotion, told a stunned nation in a radio and television broadcast that the slaughter was "Ireland's moment of greatest tragedy."

He said the explosions would bring home to the people of the republic what their northern neighbors had been suffering for the past five years.

In the only three previous bomb attacks on Dublin in the past five years, a total of three persons were killed.

The Dublin bombings coincided with a general strike in Northern Ireland, where militant Protestants opposed to the agreement have brought normal life to a halt.

Britain's Northern Ireland secretary, Merlyn Rees, said it would be "foolish" to deny press reports that British troops may be used to keep essential services operating, such as electricity, water and sewage.

Farm Bureau recommends stronger rail proposals

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation has recommended strengthening recent federal draft proposals that would subsidize rail lines to rural areas in order to maintain adequate rail service in Ohio.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) draft is the latest round in the U.S. Department of Transportation's (DOT) proposal to cut one-third of Ohio's rail service, most to rural areas.

Unfortunately, the reductions would be a severe blow to farmers whose grain is moved to market by rail. Truck transport would vastly increase the cost of grain.

"The ICC proposals are good as far as they go and they offer a valid way to maintain rail service," Farm Bureau Executive Vice President C. William Swank said today. "Our recommendations will strengthen the draft proposals, making them fairer for all parties involved."

THE ICC proposals would determine the exact subsidy to be paid by a public or private group wanting to maintain service to a particular area.

But Swank said, in their present form, the proposals might allow rail companies to demand larger subsidies than they are entitled and could lead to unfair subsidies because there is no provision for rate changes once subsidies are established.

To strengthen the draft, Swank said the Farm Bureau recommends:

—that the ICC's Rail Services Planning Office verify the subsidy data submitted by the individual rail lines for each line to be eliminated. Under the federal proposal, the data supplied by the rail company would be assumed to be correct.

—that the Rail Services Planning Office periodically review the costs and operating revenues of subsidized lines to determine if a subsidy should be changed. There is no review procedure in the draft proposal.

—that both parties share in the arbitration costs if outside help is needed to resolve a subsidy conflict. The draft proposals allow for arbitration but don't specify how it will be funded. Thus, one party could remain uncompromising, knowing the other party might be unwilling to shoulder additional costs of arbitrating the dispute.

The ICC and DOT proposals are the result of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, adopted by Congress to streamline the nation's rail service.

Bean prices tumble

The price of soybeans dropped 40 per cent from its peak. The May and July soybean futures, which once traded above the $9 level, have been selling recently below $5.50 a bushel.

Some farmers who are still holding their 1973 beans are kicking themselves for having missed an opportunity to sell their crop at the peak price. Such self-criticism is not justified. While a few beans were sold at and near the top, large sales by farmers would have swamped the market and sent prices to the bottom.

There are, however, important lessons here: (1) future markets are not reliable price forecasters and (2) an unusually high price offered for a crop long before it is planted shows that a few persons or firms are willing to pay such a price for a small amount of that crop, but not that a large volume could be sold at the high price.

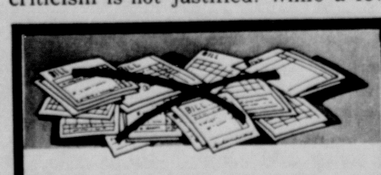

As we have noted recently, present stocks of soybeans are more than enough to keep our mills and export lines running until the next crop is harvested; also, the new crop probably will exceed total requirements during the 1974-75 marketing year. Despite this apparent abundance, prices after harvest received strong support from farmers who held their beans off the market.

Market specialists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture expect the carry-over of soybeans on September 7 to be around 240 million bushels. That would be four times as much as was carried over last fall, and would be equal to the amount used and exported in nine weeks. The actual carryover will not be 240 million bushels — but probably will be within 25 million bushels of that figure. More information about this will become available on April 24, when the USDA issues its regular quarterly report on grain stocks.

Washington specialists believe that with average weather, the 1974 soybean crop will be almost as large as the one harvested last fall. The survey at the first of March indicated that acreage would be cut 4 per cent; but part of the acreage cut could be offset by higher yields; and farmers who cannot get enough fertilizer for their corn may plant more soybeans than they thought they would in March.

The USDA analysts expect the 1974 soybean crop to total somewhere around 1,540 million bushels, which would be 2 per cent less than last year. Domestic and export needs for soybeans during 1974-75 are projected at around 1,490 million bushels — about 100 million more than is expected to be utilized during this marketing year.

U.S. soybean mills and export lines have been running at full speed since last fall. Shortages of soybean meal and oil and of competing products have been eased. Then, too, the low prices for livestock have weakened the demand for soybean meal, which is the most valuable product obtained from soybeans.

Costs of farming to offset income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases this year in the costs of farming probably will more than offset another substantial boost in gross farm income, the Agriculture Department's outlook and situation board predicts.

But even so, its projected $4-billion decrease from 1973 in net farm income to $26.1 billion would be second only to last year's record in the agricultural statistics books.

The board, in its summary Friday of the upcoming quarterly demand-and-price situation report, said the second half of this year should see expanding livestock supplies and record grain production, "assuming normal weather."

"With increasing output and moderating demand, crop prices could decline dramatically, particularly late in 1974, and average near year-earlier levels...

"For all of 1974, marketing from farming may total almost $7 billion above 1973. Subtracting from this a more than $2 billion decline in government payments to farmers would leave gross incomes up about $5 billion.

"However, production expenses are up sharply, fueled by the dramatic rise in prices of petroleum products and fertilizer. Outlays for feed and seed also show large increases in both quantity and price. These factors, coupled with a rapid rate of general inflation in the economy will push production expenses more than $9 billion above last year..." the forecasters said.

But, the board cautioned both optimists and pessimists that the normal uncertainties about the international grain harvest still exist and the farm market is especially sensitive these days.

ASCS will administer conservation programs

Chester J. Phillips, executive director of Fayette County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, has announced that his office will administer two conservation programs at the same time this year; namely, the Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP) and the reinstated Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP).

Although the two programs are similar in name and share some of the same general practices, they differ in many respects, Phillips said.

Under each of the two programs, the federal government will be sharing with farmers and ranchers the cost of carrying out approved conservation measures on their land.

RECP will place emphasis on carrying out long-term, 3-to10-year agreements for soil and water conservation practices. RECP has been funded at $90 million, with $10 million being specifically earmarked for the Forestry Incentive Program (FIP).

REAP, which is funded at $225.5 million, was reinstated on March 12, 1974. REAP will place emphasis on measures which will prevent or abate pollution from animal waste, as well as provide soil, water, and woodland conservation. Measures included are livestock waste lagoons, storage ponds and tanks, diversions, sod waterways, grassland, limestone and drainage.

Applications for cost-share assistance are being accepted now. Persons interested in any of these conservation measures should contact the Fayette county ASCS office.

USDA seeking comments on wheat program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has called for comments on its proposed determinations for the 1975 wheat program.

The Secretary of Agriculture proposed to make determinations and issue regulations relative to:

Whether there should be a set aside requirement for wheat for the 1975 crop; and, if so, the extent of such requirement.

Whether there should be a provision for additional diversion for the 1975 crop and, if so, the extent of such diversion and payment rate therefor.

The loan level for the 1975 crop of wheat, including commodity eligibility and storage requirements.

Other related provisions necessary to carry out the loan and purchase program and the set aside program.

Additional details concerning these provisions will be published later this month in the Federal Register. Prior to making the determinations, consideration will be given to any written comments received by the Director, Grain Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, not later than 30 days after publication in the register.

All written submissions will be made available for public inspection at the Office of the Director during regular business hours, 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Farm program sign-up still key for 1974

"Although there are no farm set-aside payments, and no restrictions on planting crops, farmers can still benefit from sign-up this year," said George Speakman, chairman of the Fayette County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Farmer sign-ups and certification can be completed in one step. After all crops are planted, the operator in order to participate, must certify before harvest, and the cutoff date for certification is July 15.

Acreage certification in the wheat and feed grain programs makes farmers eligible for benefits that include allotment preservation and eligibility for commodity loans, storage structure loans and deficiency payments. The program also offers a new disaster payment provision. The Department of Agriculture, under certain conditions, will make payments for prevented planting and for yield losses due to bad weather or other natural disasters. Disaster payments cover wheat and feed grain only.

Trust in the military

There is rarely any shortage of irony in the news. Even so, it is not often that one encounters such a piece of irony as that recently highlighted by tidings about the nation's military establishment.

On the same day we learned the following:

Item A: A survey conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research shows that the military now ranks first among 15 public and private institutions. These included the public schools, the Supreme Court, the news media, and so forth. The military came out best of all on a checklist of responses ranging from "very poor" to "very good."

Item B: The Pentagon acknowledged that more than a billion dollars to create a reserve stockpile of weapons for possible use by Asian allies had been secretly tucked away in budget requests. Though the Pentagon strove to justify this, it became evident that neither Congress nor the public had received any clear word that this was being done.

In short, the military again deceived Congress and the public, as it often has done in the past. Yet despite such instances of hoodwinking the public it serves, the military comes out at the head of the list when people are asked to rank our public institutions.

We are mystified by this. We wish the Institute for Social Research would run another survey to find out the basis on which people reached such a bizarre conclusion.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

NATO cracking at the seams

WASHINGTON — While Henry Kissinger, the crisis doctor, flies from bedside to bedside with his imperturable bedside manner, the Atlantic alliance is cracking at the seams.

The cracks are most ominous in the eastern flank of NATO next door to the Middle East where Kissinger is struggling to get at least a temporary peace.

In the copybooks of the military commanders, Greece is the vital pivot of NATO. Yet under a shaky military dictatorship, the result of a second coup since the king and parliamentary government were overthrown, the Greek armed forces are riddled with corruption and time-serving favortism.

The likelidhood is for still another coup as the present dictator, Brig. Gen. Demetrios Ioannidis, proves his impotence despite jailing, torturing and exiling hundreds on the slightest suspicion of opposition.

The peril is that the next upheaval, which could come as early as the end of May, may mean the death of hundreds in the streets of Athens.

BOILING HATREDS beneath the surface of suppression could break out, according to reports from Greece, in mass demonstrations. Then whether Ioannidis could impose order would be a large question.

The other day, a leading Greek parliamentarin, John G. Zighdis, only recently released from jail in Athens, testified before a House subcommittee about how the armed forces have been gravely weakened by removal of virtually all senior officers for political reasons.

This confirms American intelligence sources convinced the Greek army could not fight its way out of a paper bag.

After Zighdis' testimony, Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, gave an interview saying everything was dandy in Greece and NATO was confident of the strength of the Greek pivot.

This was plastered over the front pages of the controlled press. Zighdis was warned he had committed treason and would be clapped into jail immediately should he return to his homeland.

AMERICAN POLICY has been consistently blindfolded. Although the signs of disintegration, both political and military, were clear, the Pentagon proposed building a home port for the 6th Fleet in Athens. A pier has been built for six destroyers and 550 families of crew men are in Athens.

But having gone this far, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger pulled back. He disclosed that plans to home port an aircraft carrier with all its attendant vessels had been postponed if not cancelled.

But several thousand American civilians in rented quarters are already under the gun of a threatened bloody coup. It takes little imagination to see what black headlines this would generate, to the surprise of practically everybody, with an immediate demand for intervention to insure the safety of American lives.

One reason the home port plan was curtailed was the stiffening attitude of the military dictatorship. Although they have made no formal request, they want massive military assistance in the form of late model fighter planes and advanced tanks.

Under a provision put on in the House any military help to Greece, under a loan-sales program, must be less than $71 million.

A NEUTRALIST faction in the Greek armed forces is said to have a connection with the Libyan dictator, Muammar Kadafhi. They are apparently naive enough to believe that once the direct tie with the United States is severed and American bases closed down both sides, Russia and the United States, would bid for Greek favor with offers of massive aid.

American policy has been concentrated on working with a united Europe. So fixed has this concentration been that direct relations with individual countries is neglected. Policy has been left to the lower level bureaucracy which, as the example of Greece illustrates, may have knowledge but no power.

Kissinger cannot be expected to take over direction in every crisis spot in the world. His weakness is his failure to delegate authority to others.

So as the diplomatic shuttle flies from one capital in the Middle East to another, troubles pile up back in Washington awaiting his return.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Let's hear the noise!

A number of Democrats have criticized President Nixon for his active defense against impeachment.

On the other side of the battlefield, Republican spokesmen have attacked the President's critics for unfairly influencing the jury; that is, in this context, putting pressure on the House and Senate.

Actually, both sets of complaints are off the mark. Impeachment and conviction constitute political punishment for political sins.

What is developing is in no sense a criminal process. Conviction by the Senate, even for treason (which, of course, is not at issue now), can only result in deprivation of office and the right to hold office. The Constitution explicitly states (Art I, Sec. 3) that conviction does not bar separate legal action: impeachment does not constitute jeopardy.

What this adds up to is a contest for public opinion. In our original system, where senators were chosen by state legislatures, impeachment and conviction were in the hands of separate constituencies. The theory was that if the House, popularly elected, and the Senate by a two-thirds vote agreed, it would be an indication of massive national consensus.

This is still valid despite the popular election of senators. In essence, this clumsy technique was the ancestor of recall, the system used in some states which makes it possible for the electorate, in a special referendum, to deprive a governor or other state official of office.

ONCE YOU eliminate the fiction that impeachment is a state trial conducted with the full protection the Constitution required in a criminal action, you realize that both sides are free to influence the House, the Senate and, ultimately, the American people. (Perhaps, given some of the activities that have surfaced, it is necessary to note that the line is drawn this side of bribing senators!)

If, for instance, Mr. Nixon uses half an hour on television defending himself, equal time should be granted to the prosecution. Moreover, the whole affair should be televised so the real jurors, the people, can make up their minds and notify their elected representatives and senators.

In reply to this view, some will argue that such a spectacle undermines the standing of some mysterious entity called the "Presidency." This, I submit, is part of the problem: Mr. Nixon obviously believed that there was some sort of halo that went with the job. For two years I sat in an office three minutes away from President Johnson and had ample opportunity to discover whether there were some magic rays in the Oval Office that turned a man into an institution. I can report authoritatively there are not.

The "Presidency," in short, rises or falls with the behavior of its occupant. The fact that Calvin Coolidge did virtually nothing (except sleep) for five years did not destroy the "Presidency." Every President starts from square one. The fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt successfully seized various industries was no help to Harry Truman when, in 1952, he took over steel.

And the decision against Truman in the Youngstown Case established no firm precedent for the future. It was a ticket good for one day on one plane. Various Presidents have let Congress walk all over them; others have reclaimed lost turf and added to it.

What the Constitution did was establish a legislature, an executive and a Supreme Court, and then turn them loose to carve out their jurisdictions. The battle has now been raging for almost two centuries.

Congress, infuriated at the Supreme Court, has on one occasion specifically curbed the latter's jurisdiction. This did not destroy "The Judiciary" any more than the Court's declaration that basic New Deal legislation was unconstitutional destroyed. "The Legislature."

We do not, in other words, live in a political universe populated by Platonic forms or essences; we live in one where nine judges, 100 senators, 435 representatives and one President — all human beings — compete for political power, which is defined as the support of a majority of the American people.

Thus when Congress invokes its ultimate political weapon against the Chief Executive, it is launching a campaign for the support of the population. The President has the right to fight back with every elgitimate technique at his disposal.

All in all, it's going to be a noisy summer, but noise is essential background music for the exercise of democratic government.

Plan workshop for teachers in retarded school movement

Plans for the fifth annual workshop for teachers of the mentally retarded have been completed, according to Dr. R. L. Sayre, executive director of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Retardation Board in Chillicothe.

The workshop is designed for teachers of the TMR and EMR students, but all teachers are invited to attend. The workshop will deal with curriculum development, music therapy, arts and crafts, language development and physical education.

The dates are June 10-14 at Ohio University's branch campus in Chillicothe and the cost is $22 per quarter hour for undergraduate credit and $34 per quarter hour for graduate credit. Three quarter hours of credit will be given for the course. Classes will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Dr. Sayre said that the workshop has been designed by the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board for teachers and aides in the county mental retardation programs and has been a great success for the past four years. He said that this group, four years ago, developed the first curriculum guide for teachers working in the field of specialized education for exceptional children.

The board serves Fayette, Highland, Pickaway, Pike and Ross counties.

Inquires may be directed to the board office in Waverly (947-5964) or the continuing education department at the Ohio University branch in Chillicothe.

IUD's withdrawn from market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Up to 200,000 recently approved copper intrauterine birth-control devices (IUDs) are being withdrawn from the market because of concern over possible improper packaging.

The Food and Drug Administration said Thursday that G. D. Searle & Co. of Skokie, Ill., has begun recalling its new CU-7 devices after complaints from physicians that packages appeared to have defective seals, and thus lacked assurance of sterility.

Searle has 120,000 of the devices in its own warehouses, but an estimated 150,000 to 200,000 are in the hands of doctors and medical supply houses, the FDA said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Widower is being pestered to death

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly pestered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands don't pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "have-I-got-a-girl-for-you!" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get.

When I try to bow out politely, they say: "What's the matter, are you some kind of queer?"

Last week a young neighbor from across the street came over with a pie and a story about how lonely she was with her kids in school all day and her husband on the road. Then came the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

This morning while taking a shower I heard someone breaking through my front door. It was the lady next door. She said she'd looking through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time trying to get rid of her. After that, I pulled sown my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house!

I even put a sign up on my front door, "Were you invited?" But everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly goodlooking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do? NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and given no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have hounded my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? (I have three grandchildren!)

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that but we do get together once in a while, and I am living in fear that I'll find myself prenant with a change of life baby. I have told my doctor that and he said: "Don't worry-women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small,. it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of con-traceptive for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper-that a simple "thank you", "yes" or "no" is sufficient.

He insists that when one uses "ma'am" and "sir" he implies that he is socially beneath the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: I don't share his views either. But customs vary in different parts of the country. In Iowa, where I grew up, "ma'am" and "sir" were used to show respect and had nothing to do with one's social position.

Walnut-raisin buns are quick

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Biscuit mix was first introduced in 1931 and cooks have been using it merrily ever since. An innovative way to use the mix came to our attention recently and when we served the result at a Sunday brunch our tasters applauded it. Crunch walnuts give delicious flavor and texture to the raisin-honey filling around which the tender biscuit dough is wrapped.

WALNUT-RAISIN BUNS

2 cups buttermilk biscuit mix
½ cup water
½ cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
½ cup coarsely chopped raisins
3 tablespoons honey
1-3rd cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

With a fork stir together the biscuit mix and water until a dough forms — it should be moderately stiff. Turn out on a floured pastry cloth; with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out to a 12 by 9 inch rectangle. Cut in 3-inch squares. Stir together the walnuts, raisins and honey; place 1 tablespoon (about) of the mixture over center of each square of dough; fold points together to enclose filling and with your palms, shape each into a ball. Brush with melted butter (there will be some leftover) and place about an inch apart on a cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned—12 to 14 minutes. Meanwhile, stir together the sugar and cinnamon. At once brush each bun with the remaining melted butter and roll in the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Serve hot. Makes 12.

Jeffersonville Church of Christ is setting for wedding

Miss Gwen Garringer and Ed Belford exchanged marriage vows in the Jeffersonville Church of Christ. The Rev. Conrad Bower preformed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Garringer of Jamestown, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Belford of Columbus.

A half-hour of organ music was played by Mrs. Eldon Howard, of Cincinnati.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore her mother's wedding gown which she wore 31 years ago. The gown of ivory satin, was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and deep yoke of lace which also formed the caps of the puffed sleeves, fitted at the elbow to the wrist and trimmed with tiny satin buttons.

The lace inserts were also in the full flowing skirt and lace formed the short train. She carried a colonial bouquet of baby's breath, carnations and centered with a large orchid, with streamers of ribbon tied in lovers' knots.

Miss Teresa Persinger, maid of honor, wore a floor-length pink satin gown with scoop neckline, full skirt and short puffed sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue and lavender flowers. Miss Donna Athey, bridesmaid, wore a gown identical to that of the maid of honor, and carried a colonial bouquet of white, lavender, blue daisies and pink carnations.

Miss Carol Kneubuehl, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. She, too, wore a floor-length gown like the other attendants, and a corsage of lavender and blue daisies with pink carnations.

Skip Roland of Columbus, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Roger Garringer, brother of the bride, and Mark Kneubuehl, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Garringer chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise knit street-length dress with which she combined navy blue accessories. Her corsage of yellow roses were tipped with orange. The bridegroom's mother was ill and unable to attend.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall at the church. Hostesses, Mrs. Mary Avey, Mrs. Linda McDonald, Mrs. Melanie Creamer and Mrs. Melinda Mace, served refreshments of mints, nuts, punch and cake. A three-tiered wedding cake decorated in lavender and blue centered the bride's table.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Belford took a wedding trip via plane to Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Belford, a graduate of Miami Trace High School, attended Ohio State University, and graduated in December from Columbus Business University. She is now employed by Worthington Cylinder in Columbus. Her husband attended Ohio State University and is now employed by United Parcel.

They now reside in Columbus.

All the delegates are high school juniors.

Conflict cut within Army

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Racial conflict among U.S. Army troops no longer flares openly and use of heroin in the Army has been reduced, the Secretary of the Army claimed Friday.

"It's unbelievable what's happened in the last year," Howard H. Calloway said.

The secretary attributed the improvement to assignment of more experienced commanders from the company level up.

Soldiers in the NATO support force in Europe still use some heroin, but the problem is being fought and has not worsened, he said.

"In fact, it's better," he added.

The Army was plagued with racial confrontations, especially in Europe. The drug problem flared most prominently among troops in the Far East.

Callaway was in Cleveland for an Armed Forces Week dinner dance.

Economic warfare next for Vietnam?

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Economic and military anaylsts here believe North Vietnam has put off any idea of a general military offensive in South Vietnam for perhaps 18 months in order to gear up for a full-scale economic development program at home.

They emphasize, however, that Hanoi is still keeping its military options open.

Said one U.S. source:

"It is fairly safe to say that during the next 18 months, Hanoi probably will not come full force with a military investment in the South."

U.S. military analysts generally agree with this assessment.

Despite intensified fighting along South Vietnam's western borders which has spilled into Cambodia during the past month, U.S. military analysts disagree with Saigon government officials, including President Nguyen Van Thieu, that Hanoi has launched a general offensive.

"I don't see it as an outbreak of a general offensive," says one analyst. "A number of spokesmen for the government of Vietnam have painted it that way. But I don't believe it.

"All of it has a plausible explanation. The fighting is being directed at local objectives. It does not hang together. There is no common thread such as the Tet offensive of 1968 and the Easter offensive of 1972. Not yet.

"The Communists are attempting to improve their position militarily so they will be in a better position to launch heavy strikes sometime in the future."

Fighting is still bloody after a cease-fire that has been in effect 15 months and casualties are heavy. The Saigon military command lists more than 90,000 men killed, wounded or missing and claims its forces have killed nearly 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

But U.S. and South Vietnamese sources acknowledge that some official battlefield reports in Saigon command communiques telling of North Vietnamese tanks and assaults by regimental size units are exaggerated and in some cases unfounded.

They claim the purpose may be to picture South Vietnam as a country under major aggression in efforts to convince a reluctant U.S. Congress to pour more aid dollars in both for economic and military purposes.

By the same token U.S. officials, including Ambassador Graham A. Martin say Hanoi is waging a major propaganda effort aimed at convincing Congress it should reduce aid to Saigon.

One U.S. analyst believes that if North Vietnam moved in full force military now "it would move sentiments in the United States for greater amounts of money."

On May 6, the U.S. Senate voted a temporary suspension of U.S. military aid shipments to South Vietnam.

American sources say both the Soviet Union and China have significantly cut their military aid to North Vietnam but they claim that economic aid is at an all-time high. Other countries, such as East Germany, are contributing economically to Hanoi, these sources say.

One of the most significant developments in recent months, according to observers of North Vietnam events, was a major reshuffle of the Hanoi government cabinet in which three new vice premiers were named and at least three ministers were fired.

"There is no question that North Vietnam's economy is hurting," says one U.S. source. "The cabinet reshuffle indicates they are finally trying to take serious steps to reverse the situation. During the war, there was no distribution system, no economy, no centralized planning effort.

"They just tried to get the goods to people who needed it. There was little control in the administrative supply system."

The new cabinet lineup groups blocs of ministries under vice premiers with emphasis on planning, finance, trade, industry, aimed at better coordination and at replacing party functionaries with competent people who know about the jobs they are charged with.

One of the significant changes, sources say, is the appointment of a vice premier assigned "to get rid of graft, corruption, bribery, extortion and other economic ills."

Sources say that North Vietnam must be economically strong to sustain an offensive, the Saigon government likewise to withstand one.

They believe that sometime next year Hanoi will review the situation before making a decision whether to launch all out war, or move ahead with a fullscale five-year economic plan for reconstruction and development scheduled to begin in 1976. One source says:

"Hanoi will have to consider these factors. What level of support will they receive? What are their chances of success? What will be the impact on their economy? What will be the reaction from the United States?"

Military analysts see the continued fighting as an attempt by North Vietnam to keep pressure on Saigon so that economically and politically the South will be strained, its morale cracked and the time ripe for a major offensive.

"They hope," says one analyst, "to crack the economy and that the economic strain will be manifested in political action against the Saigon government."

Man acquitted in slaying case

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Common Pleas Judge Fred Cramer Friday ordered a directed verdict of acquittal against Victor Mills, 27, Hamilton, charged with second degree murder.

Mills was charged in the shooting death last August of Logan Marlow, 25, Ross, behind the Grand Hotel.

The judge said there was insufficient evidence.

100,000 expected at Lockbourne

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 100,000 persons were expected for Armed Forces Day ceremonies today at newly-renamed Rickenbacker Air Force Base.

Entertainer Arthur Godrey was among the guests invited to official dedication ceremonies. Congress recently changed the name of the installation from Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The base was renamed in honor of the late Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, a native of Columbus. Rickenbacker was a World War I flying ace and an aviation pioneer.

If you need a car that's roomy and comfortable at an affordable price, Impala is a sensible buy.

IMPALA 4 DOOR SEDAN

If you sometimes haul bulky objects, you'll appreciate Impala's 18 cubic feet of trunk space. And to make the least of rough roads, Impala has Full Coil spring suspension, strategically placed rubber body mounts and extensive sound insulating.

For extra protection, there are side guard door beams and a Cargo-Guard luggage compartment. And to make driving more pleasant, Impala comes with such standard features as Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, power front disc/rear drum brakes and variable-ratio power steering.

Come in and let us show you why it makes sense to buy a reasonably priced Impala, the car that's been the nation's Number One seller for 14 years. And why it makes sense to buy it from us.

Reds trip Astros, 4-2

Houston errors benefit Cincinnati

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Manager Preston Gomez says his team just isn't hitting. He might have added the defense hasn't been too good lately, either.

The Cincinnati Reds, benefitting from three Houston errors that led to three runs, defeated the Astros 4-2 Friday night.

It was the seventh straight loss for the Astros and their ninth in the last 10 games. The Reds won for the sixth time in their last eight.

"We've got no hitting," said Gomez. "That's all. When we get hits, we're not putting them together."

Fred Norman, 3-3, who needed ninth-inning relief help, was the winner for Cincinnati. Norman saw his string of 24 innings without giving up an earned run snapped when Doug Rader hit his fifth home run of the season in the seventh.

Norman said his father Richard, 78, was in a Veterans Administration hospital at San Antonio, Tex., but followed the game on radio.

"He was 47 years old when I was born," Norman said. "He always comes to see me pitch. I wish he had been here tonight, but he just couldn't make it. He did listen to the game on radio."

The Reds scored two runs off Houston starter Claude Osteen in the first inning on Pete Rose's single, a walk, Johnny Bench's single and shortstop Roger Metzger's error on Dave Concepcion's grounder.

In the fourth, Norman and Rose singled and Joe Morgan was safe when first baseman Lee May made a bad throw to Osteen covering the bag. Osteen then picked up the ball and made a wild throw home, allowing both Norman and Rose to score.

The Astros rallied in the ninth, but reliever Clay Carroll came on to hold Houston to only one run. With one out, Rader and Ollie Brown singled off Norman. Carroll came in and gave up a run scoring single to pinchhitter Cliff Johnson, but then got another pinch hitter, rookie Mike Easler, to hit into a double play.

Norman, over 45 1-3 innings, has surrendered just 32 hits and nine runs while striking out 45 and walking only 10. The victory raised his won-lost record to 3-3 and lowered his earned run average to 1.59.

Houston Manager Preston Gomez didn't seem especially impressed after his team's seventh consecutive loss. "We've got no hitting, that's all," Gomez said.

Doug Rader's fifth home run of the season broke Norman's string of 24 innings without an earned run.

Cards 9, Cubs 8

Ted Simmons drove in three runs with a first-inning homer, then broke an 8-8 tie with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning to carry the Cardinals past Chicago.

The Cubs rallied from a 6-1 deficit to come within 6-5, and after St. Louis made it 8-5, Chicago scored three runs in their half of the eighth to tie it.

Billy Williams had four runs batted in for the Cubs—two of them on his fifth-inning home run. Don Kessinger contributed four hits for Chicago and drove in two runs.

Mets 5, Expos 0

"It's a start," said New York right-hander Tom Seaver after his 13-strikeout four-hitter blanked Montreal.

Seaver, last season's Cy Young Award winner, had slumped to a 1-4 record and a 3.5 earned run average. But Friday's game may have marked a turnaround.

Rusty Staub stroked a two-run homer on loser Balor Moore in the third inning for all the runs Seaver needed.

Padres 7, Giants 3

Nate Colbert's fifth career grand slam home run helped San Diego defeat San Francisco and end a nine-game losing string. The blast capped a five-run Padres first inning.

Enzo Hernandez singled and Enzo Hernandez hit a sacrifice fly to bring home the other two San Diego runs. Bobby Bonds had a two-run double and Ken Rudolph's single drove in the Giants' runs.

Braves 5, Dodgers 3

Pinch-hitter Mike Lum, given life when Ron Cey dropped his foul fly in the 11th inning, drove a two-run double to center field to score the winning runs for Atlanta.

Jimmy Wynn drove in two runs for the Dodgers with a triple and a double. The Dodgers' nine-game winning streak was stopped.

Twins down Angels on Hisle's homer

By The Associated Press

The plan, Frank Tanana figured, was for Larry Hisle to put the ball a few feet in front of the plate. He figured about 400 feet too short.

Hisle was batting in the bottom of the eighth inning for Minnesota. Ahead of him, Joe Lis had singled. And behind him was the meat of the Twins' batting order.

Tanana and the rest of the California Angels owned a 1-0 lead. It figured Hisle would be bunting...which is what he did on the first pitch, pushing it foul.

"I thought he was going to bunt again," Tanana said. "I threw him an up-and-away fastball that didn't have much on it."

But Hisle put everything he had into it, driving the ball 421 feet into the right field stands for a two-run homer that carried the Twins to a 2-1 victory over the Angels.

"There's no way I dreamed he'd hit it that far," Tanana said.

In other American League games, Baltimore blanked Boston 6-0 in a rain-shortened six-inning contest, Oakland mauled the Chicago White Sox 10-4, Kansas City topped Texas 6-4, Detroit downed Cleveland 4-3 and the New York Yankees edged Milwaukee 3-2.

Twins 2, Angels 1

"I was expecting a fastball 'cause he was only trying to get me out, what with Rod Carew and Tony Oliva following me," Hisle said of Tanana. "And he threw me the fastball, apparently thinking I was gonna bunt again. I got the homer in a hit-and-run situation."

But why the switch? "It was a bit of a gamble," admitted Twins Manager Frank Quilici. "But it sure worked, didn't it?"

Tanana, who also was victimized last week by a Minnesota homer that turned victory into defeat, added that "I'd throw him the same pitch again—but with more on it."

Orioles 6, Red Sox 0

Mike Cuellar checked Boston on six hits and Tommy Davis clubbed two homers, driving in four runs in a game trimmed to six innings by rain and enlivened by the appearance of the first streaker at a Baltimore ball game.

A's 10, White Sox 4

"We haven't had too many like that this season," said Alvin Dark after his A's rolled over Chicago on the strength of a four-run first inning and a six-run second.

Ray Fosse's three-run triple—on which the White Sox' Buddy Bradford broke his collarbone trying for the catch— highlighted the first-inning burst. Joe Rudi's two-run single and Bill Melton's two-run error were the big plays in the second inning.

Royals 6, Rangers 4

Fred Patek's two-run triple capped a four-run second-inning that sent the Royals past Jim Bibby and the Rangers, overcoming Texas' 3-0 lead. George Brett drove in the other Kansas City runs with doubles in the fourth and sixth innings.

When Texas scored its fourth run and had the tying runs on base with one out in the seventh inning, Doug Bird took over on the mound for winner Bruce Dal Canton.

Tigers 4, Indians 3

Al Kaline's run-scoring single triggered a three-run sixth inning that led Detroit over the Indians, who hit into four double plays. Lerrin LaGrow picked up the victory with late relief help.

"I really didn't throw well tonight and was lucky," said LaGrow. Sometimes it takes a few breaks to win a game and we got them tonight."

Yanks 3, Brewers 2

Bill Sudakis' run-scoring single capped a two-run first inning and Jim Mason hit a decisive sacrifice fly in the seventh in the Yankees' victory over Milwaukee which snapped New York's five-game losing streak.

George Scott hit a homer for the Brewers' final run—the one that left them one short. It came only moments after Roy White had made a brilliant diving catch of Dave May's long liner.

13 horses ready for Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — The painting of the Pimlico weathervane, a Preakness tradition whose origin stumps even trivia experts, will be continued today after the 99th running of the Triple Crown classic.

Tom Ennis, a member of the track's maintenance staff, will climb atop the replica of the old members' clubhouse before the race is run, and take along an assortment of paints.

As soon as the result is official, Ennis will paint the winning owner's colors on the blouse of the jockey aboard the horse which stands on the weathervane.

That will occur a few minutes after Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade and 12 opponents go to the post at 5:40 p.m., EDT. One hour of television coverage, by CBS, will begin at 5 p.m.

For the past year, the blue-and-white blocks of Meadow Stable have been displayed on the weathervane, honoring Secretariat's victory in the Preakness as he swept to the Triple Crown in 1973.

If 13 start, the 13-16 mile Preakness would have a record purse of $209,000, with a record $156,500 going to the winner.

Cannonade, who defeated six of the Preakness starters while winning the 23-horse derby, was expected to be the crowd favorite.

Woody Stephens, Cannonade's trainer, predicted his toughest opposition would come from Hudson County, the surprise Derby runnerup, and Heir to the Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep.

Rain stops Eagles' rally, as Lions salvage 11-7 win

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

In a rain-shortened game played at Madison Plains, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions whipped the Golden Eagles 11-7. After leading 11-2 after three and one-half innings of play, Madison Plains tried stalling until the rain came. This plan failed, as the rain held off until the bottom of the fifth inning. With two outs and behind four runs amidst a torrential downpour, Madison Plains decided to abondon the fight and walked from the field.

Neither team scored in the first inning but in the top of the second the Lion fireworks began. David Rittenhouse led off the inning with a base on balls and advanced to second when Herb Bonner was issued a walk. Randy Sparkman then singled home Rittenhouse and Duke Willis singled in Bonner. Jeff Wallace responded with another single to score Sparkman. After a successful sacrifice put men at second and third, Mark Johnson drilled a double into center field, scoring both Willis and Wallace to make the score 5-0.

The Golden Eagles got one run back in the bottom of the second. Left fielder Bill Sullivan stepped to the plate, leading off the inning, and ripped a ball over everybody's head for a home run.

The Lions made it eight runs in the third. Rittenhouse, Bonner and Sparkman led off with singles, followed by a double by Willis and a single by Wallace to make it 8-1. Their last three runs came in the fourth on a walk to Rittenhouse, Bonner being awarded first when he was hit by the pitch, a triple from Willis and a single from Craig Stabelton.

The Eagles got another run in the fourth on a double by Rick Forest, a balk and a ground out by Bill Flanagan. Their final five runs came in the fifth when pinch hitter Dave Countryman reached on an error, Phil Rodgers singled, Sullivan doubled, Forest singled and Dave Joslin smashed a home run.

Lion hurler Stebelton went the entire five innings giving up seven runs, six of which were earned, on six hits while striking out six and walking the same number. Eagle pitcher Jerry Green also went the distance in defeat, giving up eleven runs on eleven hits, while striking out four and walking five.

The Lions' overall record stands at 7-14 while their SCOL mark is 5-9.

Rain shortens league play

Rain shortened play in the Friday Night Golf League at the Washington Country Club. The fifth man for each team was still out on the course when the rain came, so the players will be finishing their rounds during the coming week.

Bill Mount, a substitute for the Dodgers, and Al Willoughby of the Yankees each shot 39's to top the first man players on each team. Second man honors were shared by Harry Townsend of the Reds and Roger Miller of the Dodgers, who shot 41's. There was a tie between the third men, as Loren Noble of the Mets and Bart Mahoney of the Yankees carded 45's. Fourth man honors were shared by Ralph Hyer of the Mets and Horace Jacobs of the Cubs with 49's.

Without the results of the fifth men, team scores stood with the Reds leading the Dodgers 10-6, the Mets leading the Cubs 9½-6½ and the Yankees bombing the Pirates 13-3.

Next week, the Mets play the Pirates, the Cubs play the Reds and the Dodgers and Yankees meet.

Ban on high-tar cigarettes nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has voted 3 to 2 that it cannot ban high-tar cigarettes under the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act.

The ban had been sought in a petition filed Feb. 1 by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and the American Public Health Association.

The possibility of the ban had been raised last August by Richard O. Simpson, commission chairman. Simpson had said it was an open question whether the commission could act against cigarettes under the hazardous substances act, despite the specific exclusion of tobacco products by the Consumer Product Safety Act, which set up the commission a year ago.

Action on Smoking and Health, a Washington-based anti-smoking group, termed the commission decision "incorrect and premature."

"Taking such precipitous action on a vital matter affecting the public health without benefit of a public hearing was contrary to established administrative procedure and a very bad omen for consumers relying on the commission," said John Banzhaf, director of the group.

He said his group probably will ask the commission to reconsider its decision and hold a public hearing.

Simpson's statement last year had brought down a stream of criticism from tobacco state legislators including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who sought an opinion on a possible ban from the General Accounting Office.

It responded that "an outright ban on high-tar cigarettes involves a major policy decision which the Congress has not delegated to any regulatory agency."

The petition had requested that all cigarettes containing 22 milligrams or more of tar be banned as hazardous substances. This would have included 27 brands accounting for 15 per cent of the cigarettes sold annually.

THREAT BECOMES REAL — As a woman looks from a window, Mark Matays, 22, of Brooklyn, drops from the roof of a 23-story apartment building in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn. Matays stood on the edge of the roof for an hour while police tried to talk him to safety, but in the end he carried out his threat to jump, ending his life.

See record number of parks visitors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Natural Resources Director William Nye believes state parks, getting a boost from the energy crisis, will have a record number of visitors this year.

"Ohioans will be looking to satisfy their recreation needs at facilities close to home, places they can get to and back on a tank of gas," Nye said.

"I believe that more Ohioans will be visiting more Ohio parks this year than ever before."

The parks registered 40,447,179 visitors last year. In preparation for the busy season, a seven-man team of department officials will be checking the readiness of the parks next week.

Nye personally will kick off "readiness week" by inspecting Kiser Lake State Park in Champaign County, John Bryan State Park in Greene County and Madison Lake State Park in Madison County Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Nye said Friday the department is considering a proposed long-range development plan for Kelley's Island State Park.

He said a consulting firm prepared a master plan which suggests a lodge, two golf courses, cabins and additional camping facilities at a cost of $16 million to $20 million.

Implementation is at least six years away, Nye said. He noted the plan must be approved by the department and island residents and the money allocated before any of the plan could be put into effect.

The department commissioned the plan after receiving a $1.2 million appropriation from the legislature last year to buy and develop additional land for the 650-acre park.

So far, 150 acres have been acquired, and natural resources department officials plan to buy about 1,000 more with the money, Nye said.

The park now offers swimming and camping facilities, hiking and nature areas.

Summer projects on city board's calendar Monday

Consideration of 12 summer projects will top the agenda for members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The board will also be considering a severance pay policy and an increased mileage payment for school district personnel using personal vehicles for school business.

According to Brown, Washington C.H. will be the location of the principal office of the corporation.

The articles of incorporation filed in the office of the Secretary of State indicates that the purpose of the corporation is the "Improvement of airport facilities" and to "conduct aviational organized activities, safety programs and insutructional facilities."

Jack Sanders, Robert L. Wilson, Jack Patton and Bill Dennis are the incorporators of the organization. Dennis, Ohio 38-N, has been appointed to serve as statutory agent for the corporation.

Laurel Oaks student tops in masonry

RICK PATTERSON

WILMINGTON — A student at the Laurel Oaks Career Development campus in Wilmington is ranked as Ohio's best in vocational masonry.

Rick Patterson, a senior , son of Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Patterson, of Lockland, bested other district champions in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of American (VICA) in skill olympics held in Columbus. He will represent Ohio at the national skill olympics in San Antonio, Tex., June 9-12.

In the state finals, all contestants, were required to construct a T-shaped pier as high as they could in one hour and 45 minutes. Fifteen mintues were then used to tool joints and straighten the project.

Patterson has spent the last two years in Ray Griffith's masonry class at the vocational school. He credits his instructor with encouraging him to strive for perfection in his brick and block laying.

Griffith left his own masonry business in Hillsboro after 27 years to share his skills with vocational students.

Patterson plans to enter a construction trade in Cincinnati following graduation.

Planetary influences especially favored research, organizational matters, finances. You may get some good ideas from others.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
This day needs enthusiasm — backed up with thorough knowledge of what you're about. Reckon with others' skill, experience. Competition may be strong.

YOU BORN TODAY are a humanitarian at heart and have been endowed with the gift of healing as well — which makes you a "natural" for medicine, nursing and work in institutions dedicated to helping the sick and needy. However, you have many other talents and may choose an entirely different career rather than the aforementioned. It is practically a certainty, however, that no matter what occupation you choose, you will devote many hours to either an altruistic or philanthropic cause. You have a great affinity for the outdoors and all living things; would excel as a botanist, horticulturist or veterinarian. Real estate is also a fine outlet for your talents. Other possibilities for a satisfying career: the law, writing, music, the theater.

Volunteers organize to assist the sick

By JACQUELYN BOUCHER

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A severely crippled young mother cannot care for her 2-year-old son alone.

A disabled, elderly couple needs help keeping house.

A sick, 80-year-old widow lives by herself without friends or family nearby.

Each of these people needs a friend, companion, nurse, cook, housekeeper, and they get it through the Manchester Homemaker Service Inc., a nonprofit agency.

"There are a lot of old, lonely and sick people in this area," said Mrs. Hyalie Hurwitz, director of the service, which tries to keep families together during stressful periods and reduce institutionalization of the sick and elderly.

SHE SAID the need to remain in one's own home despite failing health or family crisis is strong.

"They'll do anything not to surrender their precious independence," she said. "Many, especially the elderly, feel that going to a hospital or nursing home means the end," she said.

Even though the volunteer homemakers provide only a few hours of help each week, the recipients are grateful.

"We're so much a part of their lives," said Pam Broderick, of Manchester, a homemaker health aide for a year. She said her job had deepened her understanding of the ill and increased her affection for the elderly. She also said she couldn't help becoming attached to patients despite a detachment the homemakers are supposed to maintain.

PAM'S FIRST case involved a mother who was recovering from an emotional breakdown.

"The kids all had scarlet fever and the house was upside down," she recalled.

Oran Hiltz, a blind diabetic amputee, has been a client of the homemaker service for almost 10 years.

He is visited twice a week for three hours by Janet Rice. She arrives at 9 a.m., does Hiltz's shopping, laundry and housekeeping, prepares his lunch and gives him physical therapy on his leg. She leaves at noon.

The 25 women on the agency's staff range in age from 20 to 72. The most important qualities, according to Mrs. Hurwitz, are compassion and understanding.

The women are trained by the state Health Department in a 35-hour program which includes domestic services and nursing care. Subsequently they complete 160 hours of training and receive state certification.

THE HOMEMAKERS also receive 4 or 5 additional training sessions on diabetes, multiple sclerosis, heart disease, arthritis and cancer, the illnesses seen most commonly in their patients.

They are able to cover cases "at the drop of a hat," said Mrs. Hurwitz. The agency has expanded to service South Windsor, Bolton, Ellington, Vernon, Tolland and Sommers, in addition to Manchester.

Funded by United Way, the service charges fees based on the patient's income. Fees can be charged to medicare or another health insurance plan.

Mrs. Hurwitz said the program is not just for the poor, but is for anyone who needs a little help from a "good neighbor."

GOOD WEED CONTROL HELPS OFFSET FERTILIZER SHORTAGE

Planning your corn production practices for top yields is more important than ever this year. With fertilizer in short supply, you may want to give extra attention to plant population, weed and insect control, and everything else that can make a difference. For example, you can offset the fertilizer shortage, to some degree, by being sure you get good weed control, because weeds use and tie up fertilizer your corn should get. AAtrex® herbicide will give you dependable control of broadleaf weeds and grasses, all the way to harvest. So, be sure AAtrex is part of your 1974 corn production program.

Opening lead — three of hearts.

This hand, played Tuesday by Mrs. Eileen Wright, offers declarer a variety of options as to the play of the cards.

The hand seems to be no problem at all as long as the trump split 3-2. The clubs will allow declarer two discards even if the finesse fails. Once the club finesse works, declarer can make five or six depending on how much one wishes to gamble.

However, Eldon Whiteside sitting East found the shift at trick two which placed fear in the heart of declarer, with the result that she was held to only four.

After taking the opening lead with the ace, Whiteside had no very attractive lead. He knew the clubs would play well for declarer whether South or West held the king. Therefore to cut South's ruffing power and cloud the lie of the card, he laid down the jack of spades.

After this lead declarer must reconsider the fate of the contract. If the jack is a singleton, West will hold four trump to the queen-six, and will gain two trump tricks if declarer tries to ruff losing hearts, and will be down one if the club finesse fails.

To protect against the bad split, declarer took the spade with the king and finessed the club immediately. When it held, she returned to her hand knowing that four would be made and hoping for five if West held three spades to the queen.

A small spade was led and the nine finessed. East's deceptive lead of the jack of spades paid off as he took the trick with the lonely queen.

A heart was returned and the best South could do was make four.

Left to her own devices South would ruff hearts immediately and be pleasantly surprised when the ace and king of spades felled the queen and jack. The result would probably have been that declarer make six after the clubs also drops the second round.

By placing the fear of losing the contract in South's mind, East forced her to forego any overtricks, and earned a fine score for himself and his partner.

Vaccine for Drug Addiction?

A new and novel approach to the problem of drug addiction is being watched with great interest.

Bruce Wainer, a medical student at the University of Chicago, working with one of his mentors, Dr. Charles R. Schuster, conceived of the idea of immunizing an experimental animal, the Rhesus monkey, against a craving for heroin.

A so-called "vaccine" made from this narcotic was used to diminish the animal's craving for the drug.

The preliminary information derived from this experimental study may hold significant promise.

The danger of insect stings by hornets, wasps and bees is well known. It is estimated that half a million or more people have severe reactions to the venom of these stings each year.

At the State University of New York in Buffalo, and at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Baltimore, a new method of treating allergic reactions to insect stings is being considered.

Dr. Robert E. Reisman and Dr. Martin D. Valentine, allergy specialists, report excellent results with pure honey bee venom which is used to de-sensitize people who are allergic to such stings.

This new method seems to have distinct advantages over those used now.

Coral reefs in the South Pacific are contributing to a new method for treating bones that are damaged in humans.

The tiny marine organisms that create living coral are being considered as a method of bone replacement.

Dr. Eugene White and Dr. Della M. Roy of Pennsylvania State University believe that the fine, honey-combed structure of coral closely resembles the pores in bone.

The great amount of coral available may be a valuable contribution in making artificial bone.

Kissinger tries again

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived today in Damascus on a new, more personal initiative toward an Israeli-Syrian disengagement.

Talks Friday with Israeli officials apparently rejuvenated his flagging hopes for a settlement.

Officials had announced early Friday, in the wake of this week's Arab terrorist attacks and Israeli raids on Lebanon, that Kissinger would cut short his three-week-old peace mission after his trip to Damascus.

But later Friday, after his talks in Jerusalem, Kissinger said he would return to Israel after the Damascus session and continue his three-week-old mission. He is expected back in Israel tonight.

The secretary's aides openly acknowledged that Kissinger had shed his role as a simple relayer of ideas and had taken the initiative in the talks. They said he had presented undisclosed "American ideas" to Israeli leaders on Friday.

The change in plans raised hopes for a breakthrough in drawing a cease-fire line through the Golan Heights, where Israeli and Syrian gunners duelled Friday for the 67th straight day.

It also indicated that this week's Palestinian guerrilla violence and Israeli retaliation, which left a total of more than 70 dead in Lebanon and Israel, had not had the terrorists' acknowledged aim of scuttling the Kissinger mission.

As the talks progressed in Jerusalem, Israeli jets bombed southern Lebanon for a second day, streaking over rescue workers digging for bodies left by massive Israeli reprisals the previous day.

Patsy sets new record for milk

FOWLER, Ohio (AP)—Patsy, a northeastern Ohio Holstein cow, is well on her way to a place in dairy history.

She just set another record for production of milk and butterfat—yielding 45,280 pounds of milk and 2,194 pounds of butterfat on two milkings a day during the last year.

That translates to 5,327 gallons of milk.

Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontia will be honored at a party Monday given by her owners and breeders, Herman and Henry Gelbke of Vienna in Trumbull County.

The latest is her fifth record of more than 20,000 pounds of milk and her third record of more than 1,000 pounds of fat.

She is presently the junior four-year old national milk and butterfat leader for the Holstein-Fiesian Association of America.

North Vietnamese grab 3 outposts

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese infantry, backed by at least five tanks, overran three government outposts, seized a nearby village and threatened this strategic district town only 25 miles south of Saigon, South Vietnamese field officers said today.

The village that was overrun was An Dien, about half a mile west of Ben Cat. Thousands of civilians caught up in the fighting were seen fleeing southward along Highway 13 from Ben Cat and surrounding villages to Phu Cuong, 10 miles away. A Dien's population was 2,000.

The refugees passed columns of South Vietnamese troops, with 50 tanks and armored personnel carriers, lined up along a three-mile stretch of Highway 13. A soldier said they were "awaiting orders."

The attacks came a day after a North Vietnamese force overran a military headquarters at Dak Pek, 12 miles south of the Laotian border. There remained no word on the fate of 5,000 civilians at Dak Pek, but a Viet Cong broadcast said 600 South Vietnamese troops in the area were wiped out.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, widespread fighting was reported from Quang Tri province in the north to the Mekong Delta in the south. Some analysts said the Communist command had stepped up its activity to observe the birthday Sunday of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president and Communist leader.

South Vietnamese officers said as many as 2,000 government troops had been brought into the Ben Cat area to reinforce the important town in the heart of the "Iron Triangle." The triangle, in the Saigon River corridor between Cambodia and Saigon, for years has been a major North Vietnamese route for sending men and supplies south.

Today's action was the first time in the long Vietnam war that tanks have been used so close to the capital city, said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the government military command. But he said the capital was not threatened.

The fall of Ben Cat would isolate Lai Khe just to the north on Highway 13, a major South Vietnamese base and headquarters of the 5th Infantry Division.

Storms rake wide area of nation

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms battered the Plains and parts of the Southwest today, bringing tornadoes and flash-flood warnings.

Other thunderstorms plagued Ohio and ranged east to New Jersey and Delaware.

The National Weather Service reported tornadoes touched down in north-central Kansas Friday night. Another was sighted near Clovis, N.M.

No injuries were reported.

Hail pounded areas of Nebraska and Kansas, with hailstones 2 inches in diameter at Edgar, Neb., and golf-ball size hail in northeast Kansas and near Barstow in the western part of the state.

Flash-flood watches were in effect in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois as areas that received up to 4 inches of rain Friday prepared for more thunderstorms.

Osceola, Neb., was deluged by 2.64 inches of rain in one hour late Friday.

Heavy thunderstorms also crackled across eastern New Mexico and western Texas and Oklahoma. Scattered thundershowers formed over North Dakota.

Fair skies favored portions of the Far West outside the Northwest and much of the Southeast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 82 at Altus, Okla., to 35 at Reno, Nev.

Boyle count dismissed by court

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal conspiracy charges, lodged against former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle in connection with the 1969 Yablonski family slayings, have been dismissed at the request of the government.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber granted the dismissal Friday.

The federal charges accused Boyle of violating the civil rights of UMW rival Joseph Yablonski by ordering his assassination.

Last month, Boyle was convicted on three state counts of first-degree murder in the shootings of Yablonski, his wife and his daughter. The conviction carries a mandatory life sentence, although Boyle, 72, is seeking a new trial.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who secured convictions or guilty pleas for all nine defendants charged in the Yablonski case, requested the dismissal of federal charges against Boyle following the murder trial.

The U.S. Attorney's office subsequently moved for the dismissal. "It was not considered in the interest of law enforcement to have him convicted of these charges," a spokesman for the federal prosecutor said.

Draft bill introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman, contending that the concept of an all-volunteer armed force is harmful both to democracy and fighting effectiveness, has introduced legislation to reinstate the military draft.

"The absence of Selective Service has critically impaired the fighting effectiveness of all of our armed services, and particularly the Army and Marine Corps," Democratic Rep. Charles Wilson told a news conference Friday.

"The quality of recruits for these two services has steadily declined from a mental and educational standpoint, and the combat units contain a great disproportion of culturally deprived young men," said Wilson, a Naval Academy graduate.

"You don't have to have a Ph.d in sociology to see the dangers and undesirability of having an all-black infantry led by a West Point WASP," he added.

And, Wilson said, an all-voluntary force is "totally incompatible with the principles of our egalitarian democracy."

Train derails; 11 said injured

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — "It sounded kind of like the world was coming to an end. Everybody and everything came down on top of me," says J. H. Cox of the derailment of Southern Railways' "Crescent" passenger train.

Cox, a 38-year veteran of rail service, was a pantryman on the "Crescent" when the 11-car train en route from New Orleans to New York jumped the tracks Friday.

Five Pullman coaches slid down a 70-foot, heavily wooded embankment. Eleven persons were admitted to the Druid City Hospital and another 133 were released after treatment for minor injuries.

WOODED AREA — Mr. and Mrs. Michael Inskeep 309 N. North St., now have the nature-lover's dream home. It has a view of lush trees from every room on the front side of the house. However, they are less than ecstatic about it. The view was provided Friday evening when a huge limb from a tree near the curb crashed across their front lawn and rested some of its branches on their roof during a storm. The extent of the damage is not yet known.

Trees downed, woman injured

Heavy storm sweeps county

A boisterous thunderstorm lashed the Fayette County area Friday night dumping an inch and a half of rain on Washington C.H. and creating problems for utility companies.

The noisy storm, which began shortly after 6:30 p.m. injured one person, downed at least four trees in Washington C.H., while limbs were felled throughout the city.

Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C.H. weather observer, measured a total 1.45 inches of precipitation in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Saturday.

The Fayette County area received some advanced warning of the lightning-laced storm. The National Weather Service in Columbus listed Fayette County under a severe thunderstorm warning until 7 p.m. Friday. Shortly after the warning that Fayette County was included in the storm path, a number of other neighboring counties were added to the list.

Actually, the Washington C.H. area experienced the brunt of the thunderstorm in less than an hour as it was relatively calm with only rain showers after 7:30 p.m.

GEORGE WINKLE, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Co.'s Washington C.H. district, said damage was primarily centered in Washington C.H. and north of the city in the Jeffersonville and South Solon areas. Winkle said damage was light in the Greenfield area although some troubles were reported in Good Hope.

Power outages in Washington C.H. were reported as scattered and only in individual cases as service wires were downed, according to Winkle.

Wind and lightning damage, plus downed trees and three limbs caused the majority of the headaches for Dayton Power and Light Co. work crews. The crews were replacing downed lines and transformers today.

Winkle was unable to estimate the number of Dayton Power and Light Co. customers affected by power outages.

Miss Norita Craycraft, plant manager for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., in Washington C.H., said damage as far as the phone company was concerned was concentrated in a few areas. She said wet cable was the primary problem, although the company expects to receive more reports of damage later today.

AT LEAST four large trees were downed in Washington C.H., blocking traffic lanes.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said trees were felled at the intersection of Temple and Wilson streets, on N. North Street across from the Washington Junior High School building and on Millikan Avenue. A tree was also down behind Cherry Street and blocked an alley, after hitting a garage and knocking down some wires.

Duncan said city street crews has cut all the downed trees into small pieces and all had been removed from traffic lanes. He also said limbs had been downed throughout the city.

Lightning struck and almost demolished a steeple on a county church located on U.S. 35-W, during last night's storm.

A trustee of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church, Gene Donohoe, Rt. 4, reported the steeple split in two by the lightning and debris all over the ground. He added that electricity had been knocked out, but that there was no fire.

A COVINGTON, KY. woman was injured at the Fayette County Fairground when she and her husband attempted to close up their camper, brought here for the collector show, in the storm.

Reva Ann Gatley, 47, suffered a scalp laceration requiring six stitches when she was struck on the head by a corner of the camper canopy.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported the incident at 6:50 p.m. and said the victim had been taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Washington C.H. firemen were summoned to a fire at 319 Delaware Street at 6:43 p.m.

Wind stress on electric lines caused the wires to burn through, but there was no fire upon arrival of firemen. Dayton Power and Light Co. crews were alerted.

Ziegler blasts impeachment leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaks of secret House Judiciary Committee evidence violate "the most basic sense of fairness and justice," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler says.

"Certain members of the committee and staff have practiced neither order, nor discipline, nor due process, and the result is that the country is being seriously — and in a calculated way — misled about the facts," Ziegler said Friday in a telephone interview from Key Biscayne, Fla.

Ziegler joined White House lawyer James D. St. Clair in suggesting the committee open its hearings "so that this calculated and piecemeal parceling out of information can be assessed by the country."

After four days of hearings, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., seems determined to keep them closed, at least through next week. The committee has scheduled its next closed meeting for Tuesday.

Ziegler said the leaks "will certainly have a bearing on further decisions about making information available to the committee."

The Judiciary Committee has been told by White House lawyers that it will get a response by Monday to its request for evidence relating to the ITT antitrust settlement and political contributions from the dairy industry.

The committee also has subpoenaed 11 additional Watergate tapes for delivery by Wednesday. The White House has said it would not deliver any more Watergate tapes.

Ziegler said Nixon talked Friday at Key Biscayne with key staff aides about committee proceedings but would give no details.

In other Watergate-related developments:

Jumping frog jubilee slated in Calaveras County, Calif.

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — It all started back in California's Gold Rush days, when some miners began betting on whose frog could jump the farthest. Now it's become a sort of froggy olympics.

Organizers say they expect 50,000 people and 3,000 frogs to attend this weekend's Jumping Frog Jubilee, held annually in this hamlet in the Sierra foothills about 100 miles east of San Francisco.

Politicians, particularly in an election year like this one, are always likely to show up.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who keeps glass jars of jellybeans in his executive suite, has entered a frog called Jellybean VIII.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination despite an indictment for perjury by the Watergate grand jury, has entered a frog named Jaworski, named after special Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

And California Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., running for the Democratic nomination for governor, has entered a frog named Expletive Deleted.

For the frogs, unmoved by political considerations, the idea is to cover as much distance as possible in three leaps. Toads are banned.

Trainers can't touch their entrants, but they can shout, pray and jump up and down.

There is a world record. It was set in 1966 when a frog named Ripple hopped 19 feet, three and one-eighth inches. A frog beating Ripple's record will earn $1,200 for his owner-trainer. First place money is $300 to the owner of the winner of Sunday's jump-off.

Mark Twain immortalized frog jumping with his 1865 short story about a fearsome leaper of Gold Rush days named Dan'l Webster. Dan'l beat all his competition in Calaveras County until some unscrupulous gamblers fed him a bellyful of buckshot before a big contest.

Was Patty among them?

Five gunned down in SLA shootout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police are trying to identify the charred bodies of five persons removed from a suspected Symbionese Liberation Army hideout following a blazing hour-long gun battle between officers and its occupants.

A spokesman for newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the FBI told Hearst one of the dead was SLA leader Donald D. DeFreeze. But the FBI in both Los Angeles and San Francisco denied that agents had identified DeFreeze — alias SLA General Field Marshal Cinque. It also denied telling Hearst any such thing.

The SLA claims it kidnaped Hearst's daughter, Patricia, in Berkeley last Feb. 4. She since has renounced her family and said she had joined the terrorist organization, atlthough authorities say her statements may have been coerced.

John Lester, the Hearst spokesman, told reporters of DeFreeze's reported death late Friday outside the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough, south of San Francisco. But he walked away without a word when reporters shouted, "What about Patty? What about Patty?"

Earlier Lester had said, "We just hope to God that Patty is somewhere else."

It had been feared that Miss Hearst may have been one of three white women seen by a neighbor before the shootout. The frame house burned to the ground after catching fire in the gun battle.

Police said they saw two women's bodies — one white and one black — lying in a hallway as the house burned. Ammunition belts on their bodies exploded in the fire's heat.

Three other bodies were found underneath the house near air vents to the outside.

Authorities said they were unable to positively identify any of the bodies because they were so badly disfigured. "It was a war, no other way to describe it," said police commander Peter Hagen after officers attacked the house, firing volley after volley of tear gas, shotgun and M16 rifle rounds.

They were met with heavy return fire some of it thought to be from .50-caliber machine guns. Tear gas grenades apparently sparked the fire that burned the house.

A flak-jacketed officer with a gas mask said, "It was just like Vietnam."

The battle, which was televised live on Los Angeles stations, followed a raid earlier in the day at another suspected SLA hideout. But the house was found to be empty.

A woman who emerged from the house after it caught fire said there were five other persons inside — a black man, a black woman and three white women.

"They held me, they held me," the woman was heard to say as she was taken away to an ambulance. She was not identified and appeared to have suffered gunshot wounds.

Mary Carr, 52, told police her daughter lived in the house and allowed five persons who arrived at 2 a.m. Friday to spend the night after they offered to pay $100.

Mrs. Carr said she went to the house Friday.

"A white lady had a belt on with a pistol...she slapped at the pistol and smiled up at me," Mrs. Carr said.

Mrs Carr said she left and notified police. Police reported later two vans that may have have been used by the SLA members were discovered parked nearby.

It was not known if Mrs. Carr's daughter, Minnie Lewis, 33, was the woman who ran from the house.

Officers with lights poked through the debris through the night, finding a few handguns, a shotgun and small pipebombs.

Shooting from inside the house continued even as it was engulfed in flames. The firing ceased after the walls collapsed.

One policeman was at first reported to have a leg wound, but officers later said he apparently fell off a roof.

Before the raid, the FBI alerted police agencies in Washington state to be on the lookout for a car possibly carrying Miss Hearst and SLA members. Early today the alert still stood.

The raid followed a hunt for three suspected SLA members who fled after a shootout at a sporting goods store in nearby Inglewood Thursday night.

The two white women and a white man identified themselves as SLA members as they commandeered vehicles to make their escape.

A clerk at the store later identified the man from pictures as William Taylor Harris, 29, and police said one of the women was probably his wife, Emily, 27. Both are said by authorities to be founding members of the SLA, which has been described as a heavily armed, multiracial group of about 25 persons.

A woman in a van fired 27 carbine shots at the store front, and a clerk fired three shots as the trio fled in the van, police said. No one was hit.

The trio later abandoned the van and stole three vehicles. They told one of the drivers, "We're from the SLA. We need your car," authorities said.

The trio kidnaped one of the drivers, Thomas D. Matthews, 18, and drove him in his van to a drive-in theatre. Matthews said they apparently planned to meet someone there.

Matthews said he was treated cordially and given food and drink. Later he identified Mrs. Harris as one of his abductors, police said.

He said the trio drove about 15 miles, then left him in the van under a blanket after they apparently commandeered a car.

India joins atomic club

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test, the Indian Atomic Energy Commission announced today. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the world "nuclear club" heretofore reserved to the major military powers.

The announcement, which did not specify when the explosion occurred, said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving. It said India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons.

But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

The only nations that now are known to have nuclear weapons are the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The Indian announcement said the test blast was conducted at a depth of 100 meters — about 328 feet. It did not say where the test took place or give the size of the bomb.

Experts had long suspected that India was on the verge of a nuclear bomb capacity. The consultative committee of the Indian Parliament charged with atomic energy matters was advised last year that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government was conducting experiments in the field.

But today's announcement was the first public indication that India had the ability to build and explode a bomb.

Mrs. Ghandi's government has strongly criticized atmospheric nuclear tests, particularly those conducted by China since it joined the nuclear powers in 1964. But India, like France, has refused to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty of July 1, 1968.

Trucker vote set Sunday on shutdown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Independent truckers across the nation are watching Ohio closely for the outcome of a vote scheduled Sunday on whether owner-operators in the state will join the shutdown.

One woman representing Cincinnati-area truckers told driver representatives Friday, "If you're all waiting for them to go, I think you're going to be very happy."

Independent trucker representatives from 15 states were urged to continue their shutdown at least through the weekend, during a conference call arranged by Overdrive Magazine of Los Angeles.

Overdrive and its Editor, Mike Parkhurst, are leading the way in the latest independent trucker shutdown effort. Drivers complain that rising fuel costs are forcing them out of business.

Parkhurst spoke to 250 independent truckers at a Franklin, Ohio rally Thursday. Drivers voted to join the protest, but decided to try for a stronger mandate Sunday before taking action.

About 1,000 drivers are expected to attend the gathering in Middletown.

Alliance fire loss heavy

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Alliance Fire Chief Carl Held says damage could run as high as $2 million from a fire that swept through the Morgan Engineering Co. plant here early today.

Five men inside the plant when the fire broke out escaped uninjured, but one fireman was hospitalized for observation with minor injuries.

Death toll hits 23 in Irish blasts

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — "There were limbs, pieces of clothing and bodies everywhere," sobbed an eyewitness after three powerful car bombs ripped through the heart of Dublin.

According to the latest police count, 23 men, women and children were killed and 150 wounded in the rush hour bombings Friday night, the worst bombing incident in almost five years of the sectarian war that has hit the Irish Republic as well as Northern Ireland.

Five more persons died in a bomb blast in the border town of Monaghan and at least 20 were injured.

"There were bodies and blood everywhere," said American attorney Francis P. McQuade of Maplewood, N.J., who arrived in Dublin only half an hour before the blasts. "A little girl who had been looking in a store window when the bomb went off was blown right through it."

Police warned that more bombs may be on the way.

Police sources suspected the bombers were Protestant fanatics from the north. The bombs were planted in cars hijacked earlier in the day from a Protestant stronghold in Belfast, the Northern Ireland capital.

The Ulster Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, and the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army denied any involvement with the bombings.

A man, calling himself "Capt. Craig of the Red Hand Brigade," telephoned a Dublin newspaper late Friday to warn that more bombs will be planted in the city in the next few days.

The "Red Hand of Ulster" is a traditional Protestant symbol.

The caller said the bombings will continue "until something is done about Sunningdale" — the pact signed last December by Britain, the Irish Republic and Northern Ireland.

The agreement, providing for a Council of Ireland with representatives from the north and south, is viewed by many northern Protestants as a sellout that will end in a unification of Ulster with the Catholic republic.

Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave, his voice shaking with emotion, told a stunned nation in a radio and television broadcast that the slaughter was "Ireland's moment of greatest tragedy."

He said the explosions would bring home to the people of the republic what their northern neighbors had been suffering for the past five years.

In the only three previous bomb attacks on Dublin in the past five years, a total of three persons were killed.

The Dublin bombings coincided with a general strike in Northern Ireland, where militant Protestants opposed to the agreement have brought normal life to a halt.

Britain's Northern Ireland secretary, Merlyn Rees, said it would be "foolish" to deny press reports that British troops may be used to keep essential services operating, such as electricity, water and sewage.

Farm Bureau recommends stronger rail proposals

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation has recommended strengthening recent federal draft proposals that would subsidize rail lines to rural areas in order to maintain adequate rail service in Ohio.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) draft is the latest round in the U.S. Department of Transportation's (DOT) proposal to cut one-third of Ohio's rail service, most to rural areas.

Unfortunately, the reductions would be a severe blow to farmers whose grain is moved to market by rail. Truck transport would vastly increase the cost of grain.

"The ICC proposals are good as far as they go and they offer a valid way to maintain rail service," Farm Bureau Executive Vice President C. William Swank said today. "Our recommendations will strengthen the draft proposals, making them fairer for all parties involved."

THE ICC proposals would determine the exact subsidy to be paid by a public or private group wanting to maintain service to a particular area.

But Swank said, in their present form, the proposals might allow rail companies to demand larger subsidies than they are entitled and could lead to unfair subsidies because there is no provision for rate changes once subsidies are established.

To strengthen the draft, Swank said the Farm Bureau recommends:

—that the ICC's Rail Services Planning Office verify the subsidy data submitted by the individual rail lines for each line to be eliminated. Under the federal proposal, the data supplied by the rail company would be assumed to be correct.

—that the Rail Services Planning Office periodically review the costs and operating revenues of subsidized lines to determine if a subsidy should be changed. There is no review procedure in the draft proposal.

—that both parties share in the arbitration costs if outside help is needed to resolve a subsidy conflict. The draft proposals allow for arbitration but don't specify how it will be funded. Thus, one party could remain uncompromising, knowing the other party might be unwilling to shoulder additional costs of arbitrating the dispute.

The ICC and DOT proposals are the result of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, adopted by Congress to streamline the nation's rail service.

Bean prices tumble

The price of soybeans dropped 40 per cent from its peak. The May and July soybean futures, which once traded above the $9 level, have been selling recently below $5.50 a bushel.

Some farmers who are still holding their 1973 beans are kicking themselves for having missed an opportunity to sell their crop at the peak price. Such self-criticism is not justified. While a few beans were sold at and near the top, large sales by farmers would have swamped the market and sent prices to the bottom.

There are, however, important lessons here: (1) future markets are not reliable price forecasters and (2) an unusually high price offered for a crop long before it is planted shows that a few persons or firms are willing to pay such a price for a small amount of that crop, but not that a large volume could be sold at the high price.

As we have noted recently, present stocks of soybeans are more than enough to keep our mills and export lines running until the next crop is harvested; also, the new crop probably will exceed total requirements during the 1974-75 marketing year. Despite this apparent abundance, prices after harvest received strong support from farmers who held their beans off the market.

Market specialists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture expect the carry-over of soybeans on September 7 to be around 240 million bushels. That would be four times as much as was carried over last fall, and would be equal to the amount used and exported in nine weeks. The actual carryover will not be 240 million bushels — but probably will be within 25 million bushels of that figure. More information about this will become available on April 24, when the USDA issues its regular quarterly report on grain stocks.

Washington specialists believe that with average weather, the 1974 soybean crop will be almost as large as the one harvested last fall. The survey at the first of March indicated that acreage would be cut 4 per cent; but part of the acreage cut could be offset by higher yields; and farmers who cannot get enough fertilizer for their corn may plant more soybeans than they thought they would in March.

The USDA analysts expect the 1974 soybean crop to total somewhere around 1,540 million bushels, which would be 2 per cent less than last year. Domestic and export needs for soybeans during 1974-75 are projected at around 1,490 million bushels — about 100 million more than is expected to be utilized during this marketing year.

U.S. soybean mills and export lines have been running at full speed since last fall. Shortages of soybean meal and oil and of competing products have been eased. Then, too, the low prices for livestock have weakened the demand for soybean meal, which is the most valuable product obtained from soybeans.

Costs of farming to offset income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases this year in the costs of farming probably will more than offset another substantial boost in gross farm income, the Agriculture Department's outlook and situation board predicts.

But even so, its projected $4-billion decrease from 1973 in net farm income to $26.1 billion would be second only to last year's record in the agricultural statistics books.

The board, in its summary Friday of the upcoming quarterly demand-and-price situation report, said the second half of this year should see expanding livestock supplies and record grain production, "assuming normal weather."

"With increasing output and moderating demand, crop prices could decline dramatically, particularly late in 1974, and average near year-earlier levels...

"For all of 1974, marketing from farming may total almost $7 billion above 1973. Subtracting from this a more than $2 billion decline in government payments to farmers would leave gross incomes up about $5 billion.

"However, production expenses are up sharply, fueled by the dramatic rise in prices of petroleum products and fertilizer. Outlays for feed and seed also show large increases in both quantity and price. These factors, coupled with a rapid rate of general inflation in the economy will push production expenses more than $9 billion above last year..." the forecasters said.

But, the board cautioned both optimists and pessimists that the normal uncertainties about the international grain harvest still exist and the farm market is especially sensitive these days.

JAPANESE LESSON—It's a Tokoya tempura-making lesson for Alton and Betty Lou Chance, soybean production champion couple from Cantonment, Fla. They were visiting the cooking school of famed chef Gyosai Tomura along with 22 other state champions on the Elanco soybean market study tour of the Far East.

Farm program sign-up still key for 1974

"Although there are no farm set-aside payments, and no restrictions on planting crops, farmers can still benefit from sign-up this year," said George Speakman, chairman of the Fayette County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Farmer sign-ups and certification can be completed in one step. After all crops are planted, the operator in order to participate, must certify before harvest, and the cutoff date for certification is July 15.

Acreage certification in the wheat and feed grain programs makes farmers eligible for benefits that include allotment preservation and eligibility for commodity loans, storage structure loans and deficiency payments. The program also offers a new disaster payment provision. The Department of Agriculture, under certain conditions, will make payments for prevented planting and for yield losses due to bad weather or other natural disasters. Disaster payments cover wheat and feed grain only.

ASCS will administer conservation programs

Chester J. Phillips, executive director of Fayette County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, has announced that his office will administer two conservation programs at the same time this year; namely, the Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP) and the reinstated Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP).

Although the two programs are similar in name and share some of the same general practices, they differ in many respects, Phillips said.

Under each of the two programs, the federal government will be sharing with farmers and ranchers the cost of carrying out approved conservation measures on their land.

RECP will place emphasis on carrying out long-term, 3-to10-year agreements for soil and water conservation practices. RECP has been funded at $90 million, with $10 million being specifically earmarked for the Forestry Incentive Program (FIP).

REAP, which is funded at $225.5 million, was reinstated on March 12, 1974. REAP will place emphasis on measures which will prevent or abate pollution from animal waste, as well as provide soil, water, and woodland conservation. Measures included are livestock waste lagoons, storage ponds and tanks, diversions, sod waterways, grassland, limestone and drainage.

Applications for cost-share assistance are being accepted now. Persons interested in any of these conservation measures should contact the Fayette county ASCS office.

USDA seeking comments on wheat program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has called for comments on its proposed determinations for the 1975 wheat program.

The Secretary of Agriculture proposed to make determinations and issue regulations relative to:

Whether there should be a set aside requirement for wheat for the 1975 crop; and, if so, the extent of such requirement.

Whether there should be a provision for additional diversion for the 1975 crop and, if so, the extent of such diversion and payment rate therefor.

The loan level for the 1975 crop of wheat, including commodity eligibility and storage requirements.

Other related provisions necessary to carry out the loan and purchase program and the set aside program.

Additional details concerning these provisions will be published later this month in the Federal Register. Prior to making the determinations, consideration will be given to any written comments received by the Director, Grain Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, not later than 30 days after publication in the register.

All written submissions will be made available for public inspection at the Office of the Director during regular business hours, 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Trust in the military

There is rarely any shortage of irony in the news. Even so, it is not often that one encounters such a piece of irony as that recently highlighted by tidings about the nation's military establishment.

On the same day we learned the following:

Item A: A survey conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research shows that the military now ranks first among 15 public and private institutions. These included the public schools, the Supreme Court, the news media, and so forth. The military came out best of all on a checklist of responses ranging from "very poor" to "very good."

Item B: The Pentagon acknowledged that more than a billion dollars to create a reserve stockpile of weapons for possible use by Asian allies had been secretly tucked away in budget requests. Though the Pentagon strove to justify this, it became evident that neither Congress nor the public had received any clear word that this was being done.

In short, the military again deceived Congress and the public, as it often has done in the past. Yet despite such instances of hoodwinking the public it serves, the military comes out at the head of the list when people are asked to rank our public institutions.

We are mystified by this. We wish the Institute for Social Research would run another survey to find out the basis on which people reached such a bizarre conclusion.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

NATO cracking at the seams

WASHINGTON — While Henry Kissinger, the crisis doctor, flies from bedside to bedside with his imperturable bedside manner, the Atlantic alliance is cracking at the seams.

The cracks are most ominous in the eastern flank of NATO next door to the Middle East where Kissinger is struggling to get at least a temporary peace.

In the copybooks of the military commanders, Greece is the vital pivot of NATO. Yet under a shaky military dictatorship, the result of a second coup since the king and parliamentary government were overthrown, the Greek armed forces are riddled with corruption and time-serving favortism.

The likelidhood is for still another coup as the present dictator, Brig. Gen. Demetrios Ioannidis, proves his impotence despite jailing, torturing and exiling hundreds on the slightest suspicion of opposition.

The peril is that the next upheaval, which could come as early as the end of May, may mean the death of hundreds in the streets of Athens.

BOILING HATREDS beneath the surface of suppression could break out, according to reports from Greece, in mass demonstrations. Then whether Ioannidis could impose order would be a large question.

The other day, a leading Greek parliamentarin, John G. Zighdis, only recently released from jail in Athens, testified before a House subcommittee about how the armed forces have been gravely weakened by removal of virtually all senior officers for political reasons.

This confirms American intelligence sources convinced the Greek army could not fight its way out of a paper bag.

After Zighdis' testimony, Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, gave an interview saying everything was dandy in Greece and NATO was confident of the strength of the Greek pivot.

This was plastered over the front pages of the controlled press. Zighdis was warned he had committed treason and would be clapped into jail immediately should he return to his homeland.

AMERICAN POLICY has been consistently blindfolded. Although the signs of disintegration, both political and military, were clear, the Pentagon proposed building a home port for the 6th Fleet in Athens. A pier has been built for six destroyers and 550 families of crew men are in Athens.

But having gone this far, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger pulled back. He disclosed that plans to home port an aircraft carrier with all its attendant vessels had been postponed if not cancelled.

But several thousand American civilians in rented quarters are already under the gun of a threatened bloody coup. It takes little imagination to see what black headlines this would generate, to the surprise of practically everybody, with an immediate demand for intervention to insure the safety of American lives.

One reason the home port plan was curtailed was the stiffening attitude of the military dictatorship. Although they have made no formal request, they want massive military assistance in the form of late model fighter planes and advanced tanks.

Under a provision put on in the House any military help to Greece, under a loan-sales program, must be less than $71 million.

A NEUTRALIST faction in the Greek armed forces is said to have a connection with the Libyan dictator, Muammar Kadafhi. They are apparently naive enough to believe that once the direct tie with the United States is severed and American bases closed down both sides, Russia and the United States, would bid for Greek favor with offers of massive aid.

American policy has been concentrated on working with a united Europe. So fixed has this concentration been that direct relations with individual countries is neglected. Policy has been left to the lower level bureaucracy which, as the example of Greece illustrates, may have knowledge but no power.

Kissinger cannot be expected to take over direction in every crisis spot in the world. His weakness is his failure to delegate authority to others.

So as the diplomatic shuttle flies from one capital in the Middle East to another, troubles pile up back in Washington awaiting his return.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Let's hear the noise!

A number of Democrats have criticized President Nixon for his active defense against impeachment.

On the other side of the battlefield, Republican spokesmen have attacked the President's critics for unfairly influencing the jury; that is, in this context, putting pressure on the House and Senate.

Actually, both sets of complaints are off the mark. Impeachment and conviction constitute political punishment for political sins.

What is developing is in no sense a criminal process. Conviction by the Senate, even for treason (which, of course, is not at issue now), can only result in deprivation of office and the right to hold office. The Constitution explicitly states (Art I, Sec. 3) that conviction does not bar separate legal action: impeachment does not constitute jeopardy.

What this adds up to is a contest for public opinion. In our original system, where senators were chosen by state legislatures, impeachment and conviction were in the hands of separate constituencies. The theory was that if the House, popularly elected, and the Senate by a two-thirds vote agreed, it would be an indication of massive national consensus.

This is still valid despite the popular election of senators. In essence, this clumsy technique was the ancestor of recall, the system used in some states which makes it possible for the electorate, in a special referendum, to deprive a governor or other state official of office.

ONCE YOU eliminate the fiction that impeachment is a state trial conducted with the full protection the Constitution required in a criminal action, you realize that both sides are free to influence the House, the Senate and, ultimately, the American people. (Perhaps, given some of the activities that have surfaced, it is necessary to note that the line is drawn this side of bribing senators!)

If, for instance, Mr. Nixon uses half an hour on television defending himself, equal time should be granted to the prosecution. Moreover, the whole affair should be televised so the real jurors, the people, can make up their minds and notify their elected representatives and senators.

In reply to this view, some will argue that such a spectacle undermines the standing of some mysterious entity called the "Presidency." This, I submit, is part of the problem: Mr. Nixon obviously believed that there was some sort of halo that went with the job. For two years I sat in an office three minutes away from President Johnson and had ample opportunity to discover whether there were some magic rays in the Oval Office that turned a man into an institution. I can report authoritatively there are not.

The "Presidency," in short, rises or falls with the behavior of its occupant. The fact that Calvin Coolidge did virtually nothing (except sleep) for five years did not destroy the "Presidency." Every President starts from square one. The fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt successfully seized various industries was no help to Harry Truman when, in 1952, he took over steel.

And the decision against Truman in the Youngstown Case established no firm precedent for the future. It was a ticket good for one day on one plane. Various Presidents have let Congress walk all over them; others have reclaimed lost turf and added to it.

What the Constitution did was establish a legislature, an executive and a Supreme Court, and then turn them loose to carve out their jurisdictions. The battle has now been raging for almost two centuries.

Congress, infuriated at the Supreme Court, has on one occasion specifically curbed the latter's jurisdiction. This did not destroy "The Judiciary" any more than the Court's declaration that basic New Deal legislation was unconstitutional destroyed. "The Legislature."

We do not, in other words, live in a political universe populated by Platonic forms or essences; we live in one where nine judges, 100 senators, 435 representatives and one President — all human beings — compete for political power, which is defined as the support of a majority of the American people.

Thus when Congress invokes its ultimate political weapon against the Chief Executive, it is launching a campaign for the support of the population. The President has the right to fight back with every elgitimate technique at his disposal.

All in all, it's going to be a noisy summer, but noise is essential background music for the exercise of democratic government.

Plan workshop for teachers in retarded school movement

Plans for the fifth annual workshop for teachers of the mentally retarded have been completed, according to Dr. R. L. Sayre, executive director of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Retardation Board in Chillicothe.

The workshop is designed for teachers of the TMR and EMR students, but all teachers are invited to attend. The workshop will deal with curriculum development, music therapy, arts and crafts, language development and physical education.

The dates are June 10-14 at Ohio University's branch campus in Chillicothe and the cost is $22 per quarter hour for undergraduate credit and $34 per quarter hour for graduate credit. Three quarter hours of credit will be given for the course. Classes will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Dr. Sayre said that the workshop has been designed by the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board for teachers and aides in the county mental retardation programs and has been a great success for the past four years. He said that this group, four years ago, developed the first curriculum guide for teachers working in the field of specialized education for exceptional children.

The board serves Fayette, Highland, Pickaway, Pike and Ross counties.

Inquires may be directed to the board office in Waverly (947-5964) or the continuing education department at the Ohio University branch in Chillicothe.

IUD's withdrawn from market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Up to 200,000 recently approved copper intrauterine birth-control devices (IUDs) are being withdrawn from the market because of concern over possible improper packaging.

The Food and Drug Administration said Thursday that G. D. Searle & Co. of Skokie, Ill., has begun recalling its new CU-7 devices after complaints from physicians that packages appeared to have defective seals, and thus lacked assurance of sterility.

Searle has 120,000 of the devices in its own warehouses, but an estimated 150,000 to 200,000 are in the hands of doctors and medical supply houses, the FDA said.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: EXPERIENCE IS IN THE FINGERS AND HEAD. THE HEART IS INEXPERIENCED.– HENRY THOREAU

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Widower is being pestered to death

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly pestered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands don't pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "have-I-got-a-girl-for-you!" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get.

When I try to bow out politely, they say: "What's the matter, are you some kind of queer?"

Last week a young neighbor from across the street came over with a pie and a story about how lonely she was with her kids in school all day and her husband on the road. Then came the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

This morning while taking a shower I heard someone breaking through my front door. It was the lady next door. She said she'd looking through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time trying to get rid of her. After that, I pulled sown my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house!

I even put a sign up on my front door, "Were you invited?" But everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly goodlooking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do? NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and given no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have hounded my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? (I have three grandchildren!)

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that but we do get together once in a while, and I am living in fear that I'll find myself prenant with a change of life baby. I have told my doctor that and he said: "Don't worry-women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind?
NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small,. it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of con-traceptive for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper-that a simple"thank you", "yes" or "no" is sufficient.

He insists that when one uses "ma'am" and "sir" he implies that he is socially beneath the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.
NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: I don't share his views either. But customs vary in different parts of the country. In Iowa, where I grew up, "ma'am" and "sir" were used to show respect and had nothing to do with one's social position.

Walnut-raisin buns are quick

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Biscuit mix was first introduced in 1931 and cooks have been using it merrily ever since. An innovative way to use the mix came to our attention recently and when we served the result at a Sunday brunch our tasters applauded it. Crunch walnuts give delicious flavor and texture to the raisin-honey filling around which the tender biscuit dough is wrapped.

WALNUT-RAISIN BUNS

2 cups buttermilk biscuit mix
½ cup water
½ cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
½ cup coarsely chopped raisins
3 tablespoons honey
1-3rd cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

With a fork stir together the biscuit mix and water until a dough forms — it should be moderately stiff. Turn out on a floured pastry cloth; with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out to a 12 by 9 inch rectangle. Cut in 3-inch squares. Stir together the walnuts, raisins and honey; place 1 tablespoon (about) of the mixture over center of each square of dough; fold points together to enclose filling and with your palms, shape each into a ball. Brush with melted butter (there will be some leftover) and place about an inch apart on a cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned—12 to 14 minutes. Meanwhile, stir together the sugar and cinnamon. At once brush each bun with the remaining melted butter and roll in the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Serve hot. Makes 12.

Jeffersonville Church of Christ is setting for wedding

Miss Gwen Garringer and Ed Belford exchanged marriage vows in the Jeffersonville Church of Christ. The Rev. Conrad Bower preformed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Garringer of Jamestown, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Belford of Columbus.

A half-hour of organ music was played by Mrs. Eldon Howard, of Cincinnati.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore her mother's wedding gown which she wore 31 years ago. The gown of ivory satin, was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and deep yoke of lace which also formed the caps of the puffed sleeves, fitted at the elbow to the wrist and trimmed with tiny satin buttons.

The lace inserts were also in the full flowing skirt and lace formed the short train. She carried a colonial bouquet of baby's breath, carnations and centered with a large orchid, with streamers of ribbon tied in lovers' knots.

Miss Teresa Persinger, maid of honor, wore a floor-length pink satin gown with scoop neckline, full skirt and short puffed sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue and lavender flowers. Miss Donna Athey, bridesmaid, wore a gown identical to that of the maid of honor, and carried a colonial bouquet of white, lavender, blue daisies and pink carnations.

Miss Carol Kneubuehl, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. She, too, wore a floor-length gown like the other attendants, and a corsage of lavender and blue daisies with pink carnations.

Skip Roland of Columbus, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Roger Garringer, brother of the bride, and Mark Kneubuehl, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Garringer chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise knit street-length dress with which she combined navy blue accessories. Her corsage of yellow roses were tipped with orange. The bridegroom's mother was ill and unable to attend.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall at the church. Hostesses, Mrs. Mary Avey, Mrs. Linda McDonald, Mrs. Melanie Creamer and Mrs. Melinda Mace, served refreshments of mints, nuts, punch and cake. A three-tiered wedding cake decorated in lavender and blue centered the bride's table.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Belford took a wedding trip via plane to Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Belford, a graduate of Miami Trace High School, attended Ohio State University, and graduated in December from Columbus Business University. She is now employed by Worthington Cylinder in Columbus. Her husband attended Ohio State University and is now employed by United Parcel.

They now reside in Columbus.

A cold front moving southward across the state was expected to bring cooler temperatures to Ohio today and Sunday, with thundershowers continuing in the south in the morning and afternoon.

The highs today were expected to be in the upper 60s north to the upper 70s and low 80s south. Showers were forecast again Sunday and the cold front was due to move northward, bringing warmer, summer-like temperatures.

Showers and thundershowers occurred over most of the state during the night and a flash flood watch was issued as locally heavy showers and thunderstorms swept through southwestern Ohio. Locally severe thunderstorms also occurred in the south and central portions of the state Friday night.

Showers and warm Monday. Cooler Tuesday and Wednesday with showers ending Tuesday. Highs from the upper 70s to mid 80s Monday, dropping to the upper 60s and low 70s by Wednesday. Lows in the upper 50s and the 60s Monday, dropping to the upper 40s and low 50s Wednesday.

Conflict cut within Army

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Racial conflict among U.S. Army troops no longer flares openly and use of heroin in the Army has been reduced, the Secretary of the Army claimed Friday.

"It's unbelievable what's happened in the last year," Howard H. Calloway said.

The secretary attributed the improvement to assignment of more experienced commanders from the company level up.

Soldiers in the NATO support force in Europe still use some heroin, but the problem is being fought and has not worsened, he said.

"In fact, it's better," he added.

The Army was plagued with racial confrontations, especially in Europe. The drug problem flared most prominently among troops in the Far East.

Callaway was in Cleveland for an Armed Forces Week dinner dance.

Woman charged in baby's death

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Karen Bowling, 20, of Franklin, pleaded guilty to a charge of abusing a corpse Friday in Warren County Common Pleas Court.

She had been charged earlier with the death of her newborn child, found in the bathroom of her home Jan. 21.

Economic warfare next for Vietnam?

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Economic and military anaylsts here believe North Vietnam has put off any idea of a general military offensive in South Vietnam for perhaps 18 months in order to gear up for a full-scale economic development program at home.

They emphasize, however, that Hanoi is still keeping its military options open.

Said one U.S. source:

"It is fairly safe to say that during the next 18 months, Hanoi probably will not come full force with a military investment in the South."

U.S. military analysts generally agree with this assessment.

Despite intensified fighting along South Vietnam's western borders which has spilled into Cambodia during the past month, U.S. military analysts disagree with Saigon government officials, including President Nguyen Van Thieu, that Hanoi has launched a general offensive.

"I don't see it as an outbreak of a general offensive," says one analyst. "A number of spokesmen for the government of Vietnam have painted it that way. But I don't believe it.

"All of it has a plausible explanation. The fighting is being directed at local objectives. It does not hang together. There is no common thread such as the Tet offensive of 1968 and the Easter offensive of 1972. Not yet.

"The Communists are attempting to improve their position militarily so they will be in a better position to launch heavy strikes sometime in the future."

Fighting is still bloody after a cease-fire that has been in effect 15 months and casualties are heavy. The Saigon military command lists more than 90,000 men killed, wounded or missing and claims its forces have killed nearly 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

But U.S. and South Vietnamese sources acknowledge that some official battlefield reports in Saigon command communiques telling of North Vietnamese tanks and assaults by regimental size units are exaggerated and in some cases unfounded.

They claim the purpose may be to picture South Vietnam as a country under major aggression in efforts to convince a reluctant U.S. Congress to pour more aid dollars in both for economic and military purposes.

By the same token U.S. officials, including Ambassador Graham A. Martin say Hanoi is waging a major propaganda effort aimed at convincing Congress it should reduce aid to Saigon.

One U.S. analyst believes that if North Vietnam moved in full force military now "it would move sentiments in the United States for greater amounts of money."

On May 6, the U.S. Senate voted a temporary suspension of U.S. military aid shipments to South Vietnam.

American sources say both the Soviet Union and China have significantly cut their military aid to North Vietnam but they claim that economic aid is at an all-time high. Other countries, such as East Germany, are contributing economically to Hanoi, these sources say.

One of the most significant developments in recent months, according to observers of North Vietnam events, was a major reshuffle of the Hanoi government cabinet in which three new vice premiers were named and at least three ministers were fired.

"There is no question that North Vietnam's economy is hurting," says one U.S. source. "The cabinet reshuffle indicates they are finally trying to take serious steps to reverse the situation. During the war, there was no distribution system, no economy, no centralized planning effort.

"They just tried to get the goods to people who needed it. There was little control in the administrative supply system."

The new cabinet lineup groups blocs of ministries under vice premiers with emphasis on planning, finance, trade, industry, aimed at better coordination and at replacing party functionaries with competent people who know about the jobs they are charged with.

One of the significant changes, sources say, is the appointment of a vice premier assigned "to get rid of graft, corruption, bribery, extortion and other economic ills."

Sources say that North Vietnam must be economically strong to sustain an offensive, the Saigon government likewise to withstand one.

They believe that sometime next year Hanoi will review the situation before making a decision whether to launch all out war, or move ahead with a fullscale five-year economic plan for reconstruction and development scheduled to begin in 1976. One source says:

"Hanoi will have to consider these factors. What level of support will they receive? What are their chances of success? What will be the impact on their economy? What will be the reaction from the United States?"

Military analysts see the continued fighting as an attempt by North Vietnam to keep pressure on Saigon so that economically and politically the South will be strained, its morale cracked and the time ripe for a major offensive.

"They hope," says one analyst, "to crack the economy and that the economic strain will be manifested in political action against the Saigon government."

Man acquitted in slaying case

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Common Pleas Judge Fred Cramer Friday ordered a directed verdict of acquittal against Victor Mills, 27, Hamilton, charged with second degree murder.

Mills was charged in the shooting death last August of Logan Marlow, 25, Ross, behind the Grand Hotel.

The judge said there was insufficient evidence.

100,000 expected at Lockbourne

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 100,000 persons were expected for Armed Forces Day ceremonies today at newly-renamed Rickenbacker Air Force Base.

Entertainer Arthur Godrey was among the guests invited to official dedication ceremonies. Congress recently changed the name of the installation from Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The base was renamed in honor of the late Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, a native of Columbus. Rickenbacker was a World War I flying ace and an aviation pioneer.

If you need a car that's roomy and comfortable at an affordable price, Impala is a sensible buy.

IMPALA 4-DOOR SEDAN

Not every family can fit into one of today's popular small cars. Because of your family's size or your job, it may make sense to own a full-size car like the Chevrolet Impala with a roomy interior that holds six comfortably.

If you sometimes haul bulky objects, you'll appreciate Impala's 18 cubic feet of trunk space. And to make the least of rough roads, Impala has Full Coil spring suspension, strategically placed rubber body mounts and extensive sound insulating.

For extra protection, there are side guard door beams and a Cargo-Guard luggage compartment. And to make driving more pleasant, Impala comes with such standard features as Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, power front disc/rear drum brakes and variable-ratio power steering.

Come in and let us show you why it makes sense to buy a reasonably priced Impala, the car that's been the nation's Number One seller for 14 years. And why it makes sense to buy it from us.

Reds trip Astros, 4-2

Houston errors benefit Cincinnati

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Manager Preston Gomez says his team just isn't hitting. He might have added the defense hasn't been too good lately, either.

The Cincinnati Reds, benefitting from three Houston errors that led to three runs, defeated the Astros 4-2 Friday night.

It was the seventh straight loss for the Astros and their ninth in the last 10 games. The Reds won for the sixth time in their last eight.

"We've got no hitting," said Gomez. "That's all. When we get hits, we're not putting them together."

Fred Norman, 3-3, who needed ninth-inning relief help, was the winner for Cincinnati. Norman saw his string of 24 innings without giving up an earned run snapped when Doug Rader hit his fifth home run of the season in the seventh.

Norman said his father Richard, 78, was in a Veterans Administration hospital at San Antonio, Tex., but followed the game on radio.

"He was 47 years old when I was born," Norman said. "He always comes to see me pitch. I wish he had been here tonight, but he just couldn't make it. He did listen to the game on radio."

The Reds scored two runs off Houston starter Claude Osteen in the first inning on Pete Rose's single, a walk, Johnny Bench's single and shortstop Roger Metzger's error on Dave Concepcion's grounder.

In the fourth, Norman and Rose singled and Joe Morgan was safe when first baseman Lee May made a bad throw to Osteen covering the bag. Osteen then picked up the ball and made a wild throw home, allowing both Norman and Rose to score.

The Astros rallied in the ninth, but reliever Clay Carroll came on to hold Houston to only one run. With one out, Rader and Ollie Brown singled off Norman. Carroll came in and gave up a run scoring single to pinchhitter Cliff Johnson, but then got another pinch hitter, rookie Mike Easler, to hit into a double play.

Norman, over 45 1-3 innings, has surrendered just 32 hits and nine runs while striking out 45 and walking only 10. The victory raised his won-lost record to 3-3 and lowered his earned run average to 1.59.

Houston Manager Preston Gomez didn't seem especially impressed after his team's seventh consecutive loss. "We've got no hitting, that's all," Gomez said.

Doug Rader's fifth home run of the season broke Norman's string of 24 innings without an earned run.

Cards 9, Cubs 8

Ted Simmons drove in three runs with a first-inning homer, then broke an 8-8 tie with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning to carry the Cardinals past Chicago.

The Cubs rallied from a 6-1 deficit to come within 6-5, and after St. Louis made it 8-5, Chicago scored three runs in their half of the eighth to tie it.

Billy Williams had four runs batted in for the Cubs—two of them on his fifth-inning home run. Don Kessinger contributed four hits for Chicago and drove in two runs.

Mets 5, Expos 0

"It's a start," said New York right-hander Tom Seaver after his 13-strikeout four-hitter blanked Montreal.

Seaver, last season's Cy Young Award winner, had slumped to a 1-4 record and a 3.5 earned run average. But Friday's game may have marked a turnaround.

Rusty Staub stroked a two-run homer on loser Balor Moore in the third inning for all the runs Seaver needed.

Padres 7, Giants 3

Nate Colbert's fifth career grand slam home run helped San Diego defeat San Francisco and end a nine-game losing string. The blast capped a five-run Padres first inning.

Enzo Hernandez singled and Enzo Hernandez hit a sacrifice fly to bring home the other two San Diego runs. Bobby Bonds had a two-run double and Ken Rudolph's single drove in the Giants' runs.

Braves 5, Dodgers 3

Pinch-hitter Mike Lum, given life when Ron Cey dropped his foul fly in the 11th inning, drove a two-run double to center field to score the winning runs for Atlanta.

Jimmy Wynn drove in two runs for the Dodgers with a triple and a double. The Dodgers' nine-game winning streak was stopped.

Twins down Angels on Hisle's homer

By The Associated Press

The plan, Frank Tanana figured, was for Larry Hisle to put the ball a few feet in front of the plate. He figured about 400 feet too short.

Hisle was batting in the bottom of the eighth inning for Minnesota. Ahead of him, Joe Lis had singled. And behind him was the meat of the Twins' batting order.

Tanana and the rest of the California Angels owned a 1-0 lead. It figured Hisle would be bunting...which is what he did on the first pitch, pushing it foul.

"I thought he was going to bunt again," Tanana said. "I threw him an up-and-away fastball that didn't have much on it."

But Hisle put everything he had into it, driving the ball 421 feet into the right field stands for a two-run homer that carried the Twins to a 2-1 victory over the Angels.

"There's no way I dreamed he'd hit it that far," Tanana said.

In other American League games, Baltimore blanked Boston 6-0 in a rain-shortened six-inning contest, Oakland mauled the Chicago White Sox 10-4, Kansas City topped Texas 6-4, Detroit downed Cleveland 4-3 and the New York Yankees edged Milwaukee 3-2.

Twins 2, Angels 1

"I was expecting a fastball 'cause he was only trying to get me out, what with Rod Carew and Tony Oliva following me," Hisle said of Tanana. "And he threw me the fastball, apparently thinking I was gonna bunt again. I got the homer in a hit-and-run situation."

But why the switch? "It was a bit of a gamble," admitted Twins Manager Frank Quilici. "But it sure worked, didn't it?"

Tanana, who also was victimized last week by a Minnesota homer that turned victory into defeat, added that "I'd throw him the same pitch again—but with more on it."

Orioles 6, Red Sox 0

Mike Cuellar checked Boston on six hits and Tommy Davis clubbed two homers, driving in four runs in a game trimmed to six innings by rain and enlivened by the appearance of the first streaker at a Baltimore ball game.

A's 10, White Sox 4

"We haven't had too many like that this season," said Alvin Dark after his A's rolled over Chicago on the strength of a four-run first inning and a six-run second.

Ray Fosse's three-run triple—on which the White Sox' Buddy Bradford broke his collarbone trying for the catch— highlighted the first-inning burst. Joe Rudi's two-run single and Bill Melton's two-run error were the big plays in the second inning.

Royals 6, Rangers 4

Fred Patek's two-run triple capped a four-run second-inning that sent the Royals past Jim Bibby and the Rangers, overcoming Texas' 3-0 lead. George Brett drove in the other Kansas City runs with doubles in the fourth and sixth innings.

When Texas scored its fourth run and had the tying runs on base with one out in the seventh inning, Doug Bird took over on the mound for winner Bruce Dal Canton.

Tigers 4, Indians 3

Al Kaline's run-scoring single triggered a three-run sixth inning that led Detroit over the Indians, who hit into four double plays. Lerrin LaGrow picked up the victory with late relief help.

"I really didn't throw well tonight and was lucky," said LaGrow. Sometimes it takes a few breaks to win a game and we got them tonight."

Yanks 3, Brewers 2

Bill Sudakis' run-scoring single capped a two-run first inning and Jim Mason hit a decisive sacrifice fly in the seventh in the Yankees' victory over Milwaukee which snapped New York's five-game losing streak.

George Scott hit a homer for the Brewers' final run—the one that left them one short. It came only moments after Roy White had made a brilliant diving catch of Dave May's long liner.

13 horses ready for Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — The painting of the Pimlico weathervane, a Preakness tradition whose origin stumps even trivia experts, will be continued today after the 99th running of the Triple Crown classic.

Tom Ennis, a member of the track's maintenance staff, will climb atop the replica of the old members' clubhouse before the race is run, and take along an assortment of paints.

As soon as the result is official, Ennis will paint the winning owner's colors on the blouse of the jockey aboard the horse which stands on the weathervane.

That will occur a few minutes after Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade and 12 opponents go to the post at 5:40 p.m., EDT. One hour of television coverage, by CBS, will begin at 5 p.m.

For the past year, the blue-and-white blocks of Meadow Stable have been displayed on the weathervane, honoring Secretariat's victory in the Preakness as he swept to the Triple Crown in 1973.

If 13 start, the 13-16 mile Preakness would have a record purse of $209,000, with a record $156,500 going to the winner.

Cannonade, who defeated six of the Preakness starters while winning the 23-horse derby, was expected to be the crowd favorite.

Woody Stephens, Cannonade's trainer, predicted his toughest opposition would come from Hudson County, the surprise Derby runnerup, and Heir to the Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep.

Rain stops Eagles' rally, as Lions salvage 11-7 win

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

In a rain-shortened game played at Madison Plains, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions whipped the Golden Eagles 11-7. After leading 11-2 after three and one-half innings of play, Madison Plains tried stalling until the rain came. This plan failed, as the rain held off until the bottom of the fifth inning. With two outs and behind four runs amidst a torrential downpour, Madison Plains decided to abondon the fight and walked from the field.

Neither team scored in the first inning but in the top of the second the Lion fireworks began. David Rittenhouse led off the inning with a base on balls and advanced to second when Herb Bonner was issued a walk. Randy Sparkman then singled home Rittenhouse and Duke Willis singled in Bonner. Jeff Wallace responded with another single to score Sparkman. After a successful sacrifice put men at second and third, Mark Johnson drilled a double into center field, scoring both Willis and Wallace to make the score 5-0.

The Golden Eagles got one run back in the bottom of the second. Left fielder Bill Sullivan stepped to the plate, leading off the inning, and ripped a ball over everybody's head for a home run.

The Lions made it eight runs in the third. Rittenhouse, Bonner and Sparkman led off with singles, followed by a double by Willis and a single by Wallace to make it 8-1. Their last three runs came in the fourth on a walk to Rittenhouse, Bonner being awarded first when he was hit by the pitch, a triple from Willis and a single from Craig Stabelton.

The Eagles got another run in the fourth on a double by Rick Forest, a balk and a ground out by Bill Flanagan. Their final five runs came in the fifth when pinch hitter Dave Countryman reached on an error, Phil Rodgers singled, Sullivan doubled, Forest singled and Dave Joslin smashed a home run.

Lion hurler Stebelton went the entire five innings giving up seven runs, six of which were earned, on six hits while striking out six and walking the same number. Eagle pitcher Jerry Green also went the distance in defeat, giving up eleven runs on eleven hits, while striking out four and walking five.

The Lions' overall record stands at 7-14 while their SCOL mark is 5-9.

Rain shortens league play

Rain shortened play in the Friday Night Golf League at the Washington Country Club. The fifth man for each team was still out on the course when the rain came, so the players will be finishing their rounds during the coming week.

Bill Mount, a substitute for the Dodgers, and Al Willoughby of the Yankees each shot 39's to top the first man players on each team. Second man honors were shared by Harry Townsend of the Reds and Roger Miller of the Dodgers, who shot 41's. There was a tie between the third men, as Loren Noble of the Mets and Bart Mahoney of the Yankees carded 45's. Fourth man honors were shared by Ralph Hyer of the Mets and Horace Jacobs of the Cubs with 49's.

Without the results of the fifth men, team scores stood with the Reds leading the Dodgers 10-6, the Mets leading the Cubs 9½-6½ and the Yankees bombing the Pirates 13-3.

Next week, the Mets play the Pirates, the Cubs play the Reds and the Dodgers and Yankees meet.

Ban on high-tar cigarettes nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has voted 3 to 2 that it cannot ban high-tar cigarettes under the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act.

The ban had been sought in a petition filed Feb. 1 by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and the American Public Health Association.

The possibility of the ban had been raised last August by Richard O. Simpson, commission chairman. Simpson had said it was an open question whether the commission could act against cigarettes under the hazardous substances act, despite the specific exclusion of tobacco products by the Consumer Product Safety Act, which set up the commission a year ago.

Action on Smoking and Health, a Washington-based anti-smoking group, termed the commission decision "incorrect and premature."

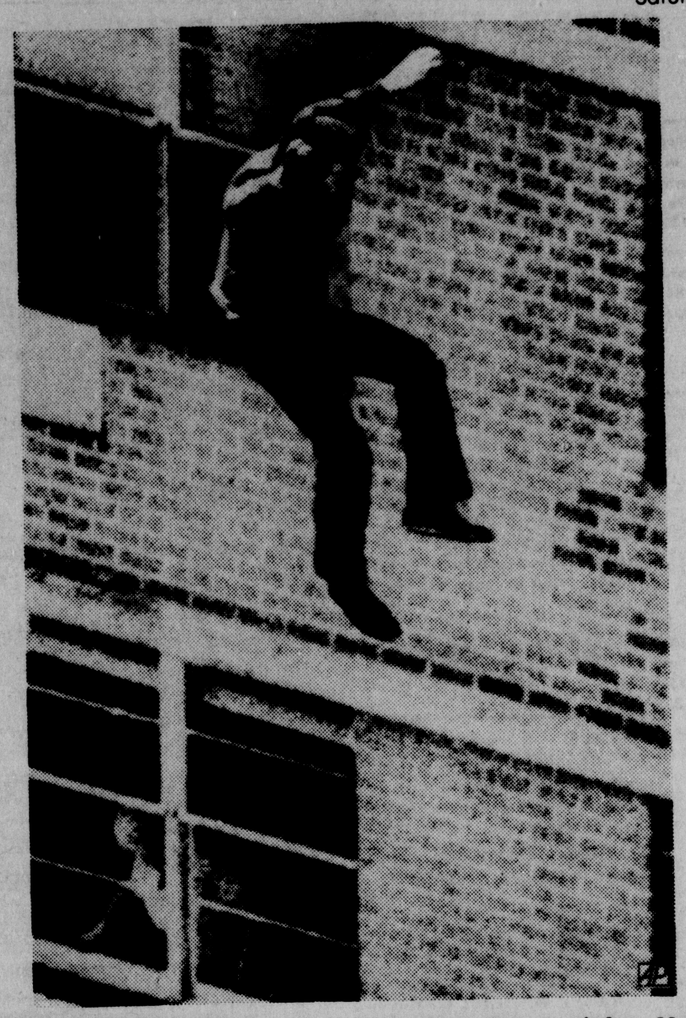

"Taking such precipitous action on a vital matter affecting the public health without benefit of a public hearing was contrary to established administrative procedure and a very bad omen for consumers relying on the commission," said John Banzhaf, director of the group.

He said his group probably will ask the commission to reconsider its decision and hold a public hearing.

Simpson's statement last year had brought down a stream of criticism from tobacco state legislators including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who sought an opinion on a possible ban from the General Accounting Office.

It responded that "an outright ban on high-tar cigarettes involves a major policy decision which the Congress has not delegated to any regulatory agency."

The petition had requested that all cigarettes containing 22 milligrams or more of tar be banned as hazardous substances. This would have included 27 brands accounting for 15 per cent of the cigarettes sold annually.

THREAT BECOMES REAL — As a woman looks from a window, Mark Matays, 22, of Brooklyn, drops from the roof of a 23-story apartment building in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn. Matays stood on the edge of the roof for an hour while police tried to talk him to safety, but in the end he carried out his threat to jump, ending his life.

See record number of parks visitors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Natural Resources Director William Nye believes state parks, getting a boost from the energy crisis, will have a record number of visitors this year.

"Ohioans will be looking to satisfy their recreation needs at facilities close to home, places they can get to and back on a tank of gas," Nye said.

"I believe that more Ohioans will be visiting more Ohio parks this year than ever before."

The parks registered 40,447,179 visitors last year. In preparation for the busy season, a seven-man team of department officials will be checking the readiness of the parks next week.

Nye personally will kick off "readiness week" by inspecting Kiser Lake State Park in Champaign County, John Bryan State Park in Greene County and Madison Lake State Park in Madison County Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Nye said Friday the department is considering a proposed long-range development plan for Kelley's Island State Park.

He said a consulting firm prepared a master plan which suggests a lodge, two golf courses, cabins and additional camping facilities at a cost of $16 million to $20 million.

Implementation is at least six years away, Nye said. He noted the plan must be approved by the department and island residents and the money allocated before any of the plan could be put into effect.

The department commissioned the plan after receiving a $1.2 million appropriation from the legislature last year to buy and develop additional land for the 650-acre park.

So far, 150 acres have been acquired, and natural resources department officials plan to buy about 1,000 more with the money, Nye said.

The park now offers swimming and camping facilities, hiking and nature areas.

The board will also be considering a severance pay policy and an increased mileage payment for school district personnel using personal vehicles for school business.

Laurel Oaks student tops in masonry

RICK PATTERSON

WILMINGTON — A student at the Laurel Oaks Career Development campus in Wilmington is ranked as Ohio's best in vocational masonry.

Rick Patterson, a senior , son of Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Patterson, of Lockland, bested other district champions in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of American (VICA) in skill olympics held in Columbus. He will represent Ohio at the national skill olympics in San Antonio, Tex., June 9-12.

In the state finals, all contestants, were required to construct a T-shaped pier as high as they could in one hour and 45 minutes. Fifteen mintues were then used to tool joints and straighten the project.

Patterson has spent the last two years in Ray Griffith's masonry class at the vocational school. He credits his instructor with encouraging him to strive for perfection in his brick and block laying.

Griffith left his own masonry business in Hillsboro after 27 years to share his skills with vocational students.

Patterson plans to enter a construction trade in Cincinnati following graduation.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Planetary influences stimulate inspirational ideas, intuition, inventiveness. Capitalize on your talents — even latent ones.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely sensitive, affectionate and home loving. Innately serious-minded, you make an excellent scholar and teacher; could also excel in science where your inherent studiousness, coupled with an inborn curiosity, would be a tremendous asset. You are fond of the active life, but have a strong tendency toward the conservative and traditional. In the choice of a career, many fields are open to you, notably: writing, the law, medicine or the theater — especially as manager or director. If, as many Taureans, you have been endowed with a good voice, be sure to cultivate it, since it could lead to almost exalted success. Any branch of the communications media would also be an excellent outlet for your talents.

MONDAY, MAY 20

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Some adverse influences. Confusion could reign if you are not on guard. Do not let a trifling situation blow up a storm. Use your head.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Discretion and secrecy may be your most important tools if you are aiming at some unusual business or financial objective. Let pass experience guide you.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Especially favored now: educational pursuits, travel, research. Achievement is possible in out-of-the-ordinary ways and places.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Better-than-average influences, but do not rest on your laurels. The past is past; now you must build for the future. A good day for making important decisions.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A slow start likely with increasing momentum as the day progresses, so don't let down in effort. Establish a solid foundation; gains can be increased.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
A lively outlook! If you have felt some restraint lately, forget it. You may step more freely now — but not recklessly, of course.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
You may run into some opposition, but you need not let it distrub your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Wait for cues before launching any project. If not on guard, you could get into difficult situations or needless complications.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Avoid tendencies toward restlessness, indecision. Protect yourself and others against dubious schemes, deceiving appearances and lack of restraint.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Planetary influences especially favored research, organizational matters, finances. You may get some good ideas from others.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
This day needs enthusiasm — backed up with thorough knowledge of what you're about. Reckon with others' skill, experience. Competition may be strong.

YOU BORN TODAY are a humanitarian at heart and have been endowed with the gift of healing as well — which makes you a "natural" for medicine, nursing and work in institutions dedicated to helping the sick and needy. However, you have many other talents and may choose an entirely different career rather than the aforementioned. It is practically a certainty, however, that no matter what occupation you choose, you will devote many hours to either an altruistic or philanthropic cause. You have a great affinity for the outdoors and all living things; would excel as a botanist, horticulturist or veterinarian. Real estate is also a fine outlet for your talents. Other possibilities for a satisfying career: the law, writing, music, the theater.

GOOD WEED CONTROL HELPS OFFSET FERTILIZER SHORTAGE

Planning your corn production practices for top yields is more important than ever this year. With fertilizer in short supply, you may want to give extra attention to plant population, weed and insect control, and everything else that can make a difference. For example, you can offset the fertilizer shortage, to some degree, by being sure you get good weed control, because weeds use and tie up fertilizer your corn should get. AAtrex® herbicide will give you dependable control of broadleaf weeds and grasses, all the way to harvest. So, be sure AAtrex is part of your 1974 corn production program.

Volunteers organize to assist the sick

By JACQUELYN BOUCHER

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A severely crippled young mother cannot care for her 2-year-old son alone.

A disabled, elderly couple needs help keeping house.

A sick, 80-year-old widow lives by herself without friends or family nearby.

Each of these people needs a friend, companion, nurse, cook, housekeeper, and they get it through the Manchester Homemaker Service Inc., a nonprofit agency.

"There are a lot of old, lonely and sick people in this area," said Mrs. Hyalie Hurwitz, director of the service, which tries to keep families together during stressful periods and reduce institutionalization of the sick and elderly.

SHE SAID the need to remain in one's own home despite failing health or family crisis is strong.

"They'll do anything not to surrender their precious independence," she said. "Many, especially the elderly, feel that going to a hospital or nursing home means the end," she said.

Even though the volunteer homemakers provide only a few hours of help each week, the recipients are grateful.

"We're so much a part of their lives," said Pam Broderick, of Manchester, a homemaker health aide for a year. She said her job had deepened her understanding of the ill and increased her affection for the elderly. She also said she couldn't help becoming attached to patients despite a detachment the homemakers are supposed to maintain.

PAM'S FIRST case involved a mother who was recovering from an emotional breakdown.

"The kids all had scarlet fever and the house was upside down," she recalled.

Oran Hiltz, a blind diabetic amputee, has been a client of the homemaker service for almost 10 years.

He is visited twice a week for three hours by Janet Rice. She arrives at 9 a.m., does Hiltz's shopping, laundry and housekeeping, prepares his lunch and gives him physical therapy on his leg. She leaves at noon.

The 25 women on the agency's staff range in age from 20 to 72. The most important qualities, according to Mrs. Hurwitz, are compassion and understanding.

The women are trained by the state Health Department in a 35-hour program which includes domestic services and nursing care. Subsequently they complete 160 hours of training and receive state certification.

THE HOMEMAKERS also receive 4 or 5 additional training sessions on diabetes, multiple sclerosis, heart disease, arthritis and cancer, the illnesses seen most commonly in their patients.

They are able to cover cases "at the drop of a hat," said Mrs. Hurwitz. The agency has expanded to service South Windsor, Bolton, Ellington, Vernon, Tolland and Sommers, in addition to Manchester.

Funded by United Way, the service charges fees based on the patient's income. Fees can be charged to medicare or another health insurance plan.

Mrs. Hurwitz said the program is not just for the poor, but is for anyone who needs a little help from a "good neighbor."

Opening lead — three of hearts.

This hand, played Tuesday by Mrs. Eileen Wright, offers declarer a variety of options as to the play of the cards.

The hand seems to be no problem at all as long as the trump split 3-2. The clubs will allow declarer two discards even if the finesse fails. Once the club finesse works, declarer can make five or six depending on how much one wishes to gamble.

However, Eldon Whiteside sitting East found the shift at trick two which placed fear in the heart of declarer, with the result that she was held to only four.

After taking the opening lead with the ace, Whiteside had no very attractive lead. He knew the clubs would play well for declarer whether South or West held the king. Therefore to cut South's ruffing power and cloud the lie of the card, he laid down the jack of spades.

After this lead declarer must reconsider the fate of the contract. If the jack is a singleton, West will hold four trump to the queen-six, and will gain two trump tricks if declarer tries to ruff losing hearts, and will be down one if the club finesse fails.

To protect against the bad split, declarer took the spade with the king and finessed the club immediately. When it held, she returned to her hand knowing that four would be made and hoping for five if West held three spades to the queen.

A small spade was led and the nine finessed. East's deceptive lead of the jack of spades paid off as he took the trick with the lonely queen.

A heart was returned and the best South could do was make four.

Left to her own devices South would ruff hearts immediately and be pleasantly surprised when the ace and king of spades felled the queen and jack. The result would probably have been that declarer make six after the clubs also drops the second round.

By placing the fear of losing the contract in South's mind, East forced her to forego any overtricks, and earned a fine score for himself and his partner.

Winners at the Washington Duplicate Bridge Club Tuesday were Mrs. Gay Jackson and Dr. Norbert Nissimov first with 69½, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burris second with 64, and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Wright third with 59½. Par was 54.

Reservations for the Washington DBC club tournament June 1 must be made by May 29. Cost is $7 per person and includes card fees and dinner between sessions.

Vaccine for Drug Addiction?

A new and novel approach to the problem of drug addiction is being watched with great interest.

Bruce Wainer, a medical student at the University of Chicago, working with one of his mentors, Dr. Charles R. Schuster, conceived of the idea of immunizing an experimental animal, the Rhesus monkey, against a craving for heroin.

A so-called "vaccine" made from this narcotic was used to diminish the animal's craving for the drug.

The preliminary information derived from this experimental study may hold significant promise.

The danger of insect stings by hornets, wasps and bees is well known. It is estimated that half a million or more people have severe reactions to the venom of these stings each year.

At the State University of New York in Buffalo, and at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Baltimore, a new method of treating allergic reactions to insect stings is being considered.

Dr. Robert E. Reisman and Dr. Martin D. Valentine, allergy specialists, report excellent results with pure honey bee venom which is used to de-sensitize people who are allergic to such stings.

This new method seems to have distinct advantages over those used now.

Coral reefs in the South Pacific are contributing to a new method for treating bones that are damaged in humans.

The tiny marine organisms that create living coral are being considered as a method of bone replacement.

Dr. Eugene White and Dr. Della M. Roy of Pennsylvania State University believe that the fine, honey-combed structure of coral closely resembles the pores in bone.

The great amount of coral available may be a valuable contribution in making artificial bone.

Kissinger tries again

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived today in Damascus on a new, more personal initiative toward an Israeli-Syrian disengagement.

Talks Friday with Israeli officials apparently rejuvenated his flagging hopes for a settlement.

Officials had announced early Friday, in the wake of this week's Arab terrorist attacks and Israeli raids on Lebanon, that Kissinger would cut short his three-week-old peace mission after his trip to Damascus.

But later Friday, after his talks in Jerusalem, Kissinger said he would return to Israel after the Damascus session and continue his three-week-old mission. He is expected back in Israel tonight.

The secretary's aides openly acknowledged that Kissinger had shed his role as a simple relayer of ideas and had taken the initiative in the talks. They said he had presented undisclosed "American ideas" to Israeli leaders on Friday.

The change in plans raised hopes for a breakthrough in drawing a cease-fire line through the Golan Heights, where Israeli and Syrian gunners duelled Friday for the 67th straight day.

It also indicated that this week's Palestinian guerrilla violence and Israeli retaliation, which left a total of more than 70 dead in Lebanon and Israel, had not had the terrorists' acknowledged aim of scuttling the Kissinger mission.

As the talks progressed in Jerusalem, Israeli jets bombed southern Lebanon for a second day, streaking over rescue workers digging for bodies left by massive Israeli reprisals the previous day.

Patsy sets new record for milk

FOWLER, Ohio (AP)—Patsy, a northeastern Ohio Holstein cow, is well on her way to a place in dairy history.

She just set another record for production of milk and butterfat—yielding 45,280 pounds of milk and 2,194 pounds of butterfat on two milkings a day during the last year.

That translates to 5,327 gallons of milk.

Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontia will be honored at a party Monday given by her owners and breeders, Herman and Henry Gelbke of Vienna in Trumbull County.

The latest is her fifth record of more than 20,000 pounds of milk and her third record of more than 1,000 pounds of fat.

She is presently the junior four-year old national milk and butterfat leader for the Holstein-Fiesian Association of America.

North Vietnamese grab 3 outposts

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese infantry, backed by at least five tanks, overran three government outposts, seized a nearby village and threatened this strategic district town only 25 miles south of Saigon, South Vietnamese field officers said today.

The village that was overrun was An Dien, about half a mile west of Ben Cat. Thousands of civilians caught up in the fighting were seen fleeing southward along Highway 13 from Ben Cat and surrounding villages to Phu Cuong, 10 miles away. A Dien's population was 2,000.

The refugees passed columns of South Vietnamese troops, with 50 tanks and armored personnel carriers, lined up along a three-mile stretch of Highway 13. A soldier said they were "awaiting orders."

The attacks came a day after a North Vietnamese force overran a military headquarters at Dak Pek, 12 miles south of the Laotian border. There remained no word on the fate of 5,000 civilians at Dak Pek, but a Viet Cong broadcast said 600 South Vietnamese troops in the area were wiped out.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, widespread fighting was reported from Quang Tri province in the north to the Mekong Delta in the south. Some analysts said the Communist command had stepped up its activity to observe the birthday Sunday of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president and Communist leader.

South Vietnamese officers said as many as 2,000 government troops had been brought into the Ben Cat area to reinforce the important town in the heart of the "Iron Triangle." The triangle, in the Saigon River corridor between Cambodia and Saigon, for years has been a major North Vietnamese route for sending men and supplies south.

Today's action was the first time in the long Vietnam war that tanks have been used so close to the capital city, said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the government military command. But he said the capital was not threatened.

The fall of Ben Cat would isolate Lai Khe just to the north on Highway 13, a major South Vietnamese base and headquarters of the 5th Infantry Division.

Storms rake wide area of nation

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms battered the Plains and parts of the Southwest today, bringing tornadoes and flash-flood warnings.

Other thunderstorms plagued Ohio and ranged east to New Jersey and Delaware.

The National Weather Service reported tornadoes touched down in north-central Kansas Friday night. Another was sighted near Clovis, N.M.

No injuries were reported.

Hail pounded areas of Nebraska and Kansas, with hailstones 2 inches in diameter at Edgar, Neb., and golf-ball size hail in northeast Kansas and near Barstow in the western part of the state.

Flash-flood watches were in effect in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois as areas that received up to 4 inches of rain Friday prepared for more thunderstorms.

Osceola, Neb., was deluged by 2.64 inches of rain in one hour late Friday.

Heavy thunderstorms also crackled across eastern New Mexico and western Texas and Oklahoma. Scattered thundershowers formed over North Dakota.

Fair skies favored portions of the Far West outside the Northwest and much of the Southeast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 82 at Altus, Okla., to 35 at Reno, Nev.

Boyle count dismissed by court

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal conspiracy charges, lodged against former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle in connection with the 1969 Yablonski family slayings, have been dismissed at the request of the government.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber granted the dismissal Friday.

The federal charges accused Boyle of violating the civil rights of UMW rival Joseph Yablonski by ordering his assassination.

Last month, Boyle was convicted on three state counts of first-degree murder in the shootings of Yablonski, his wife and his daughter. The conviction carries a mandatory life sentence, although Boyle, 72, is seeking a new trial.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who secured convictions or guilty pleas for all nine defendants charged in the Yablonski case, requested the dismissal of federal charges against Boyle following the murder trial.

The U.S. Attorney's office subsequently moved for the dismissal. "It was not considered in the interest of law enforcement to have him convicted of these charges," a spokesman for the federal prosecutor said.

Draft bill introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman, contending that the concept of an all-volunteer armed force is harmful both to democracy and fighting effectiveness, has introduced legislation to reinstate the military draft.

"The absence of Selective Service has critically impaired the fighting effectiveness of all of our armed services, and particularly the Army and Marine Corps," Democratic Rep. Charles Wilson told a news conference Friday.

"The quality of recruits for these two services has steadily declined from a mental and educational standpoint, and the combat units contain a great disproportion of culturally deprived young men," said Wilson, a Naval Academy graduate.

"You don't have to have a Ph.d in sociology to see the dangers and undesirability of having an all-black infantry led by a West Point WASP," he added.

And, Wilson said, an all-voluntary force is "totally incompatible with the principles of our egalitarian democracy."

Train derails; 11 said injured

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — "It sounded kind of like the world was coming to an end. Everybody and everything came down on top of me," says J. H. Cox of the derailment of Southern Railways' "Crescent" passenger train.

Cox, a 38-year veteran of rail service, was a pantryman on the "Crescent" when the 11-car train en route from New Orleans to New York jumped the tracks Friday.

Five Pullman coaches slid down a 70-foot, heavily wooded embankment. Eleven persons were admitted to the Druid City Hospital and another 133 were released after treatment for minor injuries.

Baker asks probe

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Howard H. Baker says he will ask a Senate subcommittee to investigate a reported threat by President Nixon to retaliate against the Washington Post for its Watergate investigations.
